Introduction

Volume One of Faeries, Angels, Indians and Aliens described the assistance I received from interdimensional beings while helping my wife Marjorie to overcome the effects of multiple psychological traumas. Through hypnotic sessions she journeyed to the Creator's Throne, explored her childhood misfortunes and those of many past lives, and together we formed loving relationships with the interdimensional beings who helped. They included Perithnea, a protective faery, Alta Sha, her guardian angel, and Light Mother, (a.k.a. Archangel Metatron), who healed Marjorie of several physical and emotional ailments. Marjorie eventually remembered many loving contacts with extraterrestrials beginning in early childhood. She also developed conscious contact with her extraterrestrial mentor, Nucleus 8, the Chief of Security for a multi-galactic and multi-dimensional Alliance, which includes thousands of distinctly different, intelligent, and highly evolved life forms.

At the request of Alta Sha, Marjorie allowed five ancient spirits of the Tarahumara Indian tribe to enter her body for their mutual benefit. After sharing their gifts of spiritual wisdom and healing with us, we released two of them at their homeland in Batopilas Canyon, Mexico, to await reincarnation as leaders among their people. The remaining three sojourned within another person who had little interest in them.

We grieved over the loss of our spiritual friends, but were told by Perithnea to expect another group of Native American spirits to join us at Mesa Verde National Park, where we accepted the spirits of five ancient Ute' Indians, who had helped to construct some of the buildings at Mesa Verde. Four of them entered Marjorie and one, in the form of a golden eagle, entered me. We learned much about their culture and shared this knowledge with others. One of the Ute' spirits who named himself Tanner led us to the site of his ruined home and to a sacred circle of stones that he erected hundreds of years ago.

Frequent conversations between me and Nucleus 8, who channeled through Marjorie via implant technology, led to him to knowledge of the Creator. He revealed that he was supervising the preparation of a planet for the future habitation of selected humans as well as other intelligent life forms whose planets were dying.

Conned by a half-breed Cherokee claiming to be a full blooded Sioux, we hosted a Pow-Wow which drew Indians from various tribes to our home, and we became friends with several of them. A huge number of Native American spirits representing all the tribes of North America simultaneously conducted their own Pow-Wow, demonstrating their presence through physical manifestations in and around our home. They were also visible to the con man and made him quite nervous.

A wood sprite named Mi joined our adopted spiritual family and began to imitate sounds, caused things to move, and tickled us. At times she manifested as a fast-flying, brown blur.

We became acquainted with a woman who was joined by the spirit of Rapsar, the deceased pilot of a sabotaged, interdimensional craft which crashed on one of the Spanish Peaks centuries ago, killing all aboard. Rapsar began to channel through her, and restored communication with Nucleus 8. It was revealed that ETs had been contacting Native Americans for thousands of years.

Three of the Ute' spirits in Marjie were released at the Spanish Peaks, where they await reincarnation. Tanner and the spirit of Rides the Wind remained with us. Three of the Tarahumara spirits and those of five famous Sioux and Apache warrior chiefs, who remained at our home after the spirit Pow-Wow, guarded us from danger until time for us to release them, causing paranormal effects.

A trip to see Miracle, the famous white buffalo calf, included being houseguests of an elder of the Mohican tribe and her ex-nun companion. We learned from them that the tribal council of the Stockbridge Indian Reservation was depriving the people of income from their casino. Tanner, also known as Softener of Skins, performed a healing ceremony for the tribe while we were there. Imprisonment of several offenders occurred within the following year.

In Volume Two, Tanner elicits our help to find sacred teaching stones which are scattered in various locations from the Spanish Peaks to northernmost Newfoundland. We make several journeys in search of them, meanwhile encountering numerous, highly improbable synchronicities, which serve to convince us that our Creator is in charge and making sure we will succeed.

We learn more about the implants, through which our physical and emotional well being is monitored, and which are also two-way transmitters of other information. The use of crystal technology by the ETs to withdraw, store, and direct vital spiritual energy wherever it is needed is demonstrated through the mysterious activation of household electronic devices. We learn That Marjie is the mother of many hybrid children and has been given extraterrestrial DNA.

Marjorie continues to struggle with chronic emotional and acute physical difficulties. Several medical interventions are performed on Marjorie by the ETs in their dimension with definite and rapid beneficial effects on her physical body here. For example, the ETs cure a potentially fatal virus which attacks Marjorie's neuromuscular system.

Meanwhile, Nucleus 8 learns to feel and express deep emotions which have been deliberately repressed due to intense early conditioning caused by highly placed persons who secretly serve the forces of Darkness. Discovering such hidden knowledge is potentially fatal to a hybrid such as himself, and Divine intervention is required to save his life. His successful inner search leads to revolutionary changes within his society.

Alta Sha and Metatron are very active in our lives and Marjorie's training to perfect her channeling continues, along with installation of new implants by Nucleus 8 and 22, head of the Alliance's medical staff. A member of the governing Board of Twelve invites me to become a team member. Nucleus 8 is very disturbed by security-breaching visits from Marjie's guardian angel. Many paranormal effects are deliberately caused by our interdimensional friends to confirm they are exactly what they claim to be.

The Board of Twelve requests through Nucleus 8 that Marjorie and I accept the responsibility of raising two traumatized, sibling children of the Teglinlin species who were rescued from their abusive parents. Through ET technology, their conscious minds enter Marjorie, while their bodies are safely maintained at Alliance headquarters.

We name the very young female Teglinlin Sarah and her considerably older brother Joshua. The Board of Twelve accelerates Sarah's growth against her will, so that she can quickly assume a vacant position among them, and Sarah resists. In order to sabotage the positive changes which are occurring, secret renegade forces within the Alliance make a series of homicidal attacks on Nucleus 8, Sarah and Marjorie which nearly succeed.

Joshua re-enters his body to work in the botanical unit at headquarters of the Alliance after he and Adam, our adopted faery son, become good friends. They conduct genetic experiments, in order to create new species of flowering plants with blossoms having a metallic luster.

Upon the request of Nucleus 8, we accept an infant Teglinlin, newborn brother of Joshua and Sarah, and name him Joseph. At first he requires bottle feeding. Sarah continues her training within our home and at the Station headquarters of the Alliance, but insists she wants to stay with us always.

The extraordinary, improbable and mysterious experiences that fill our lives are clearly arranged by our Creator and lead to spiritual growth for all of us.

Acknowledgements

First, last, and always, I must thank our heavenly Father for inspiring the creation of this series of nonfiction books, which are about His plans and His deeds. Meeting Marjorie Ann, an incredibly gifted channel, was an answer to prayer. Without her unselfish participation, the loving relationships with interdimensional beings which these volumes describe would never have occurred. To the faeries, angels, Indian spirits and extraterrestrial persons who still bless our lives go my continued heartfelt thanks and love. Thanks also to the other human actors in this saga who helped us to grow spiritually through our relationships. Finally, eternal gratitude is due to my son Chris, who generously provided crucial assistance in internal and external book design and web page development.

Faeries, Angels, Indians and Aliens:

Volume Two

Chapter One

Sacred Stones

My wife Marjie and I had recently returned from a long trip to southwestern locations including the Spanish Peaks near La Veta, Colorado, where we had released three Ute' spirits who were close companions of Tanner, a Ute' spirit who also channeled through her. After a day of rest our adopted faery child, Perithnea, said to me, "Tanner wants to channel, and it's time for mother to learn more about the Spanish Peaks."

"Okay, we'll have a session."

I counted Marjie down. When she had entered the trance, she said, "I see Perithnea. She is taking me to the plane of books. We have come to a door. She says we have to go through the keyhole to get in. This time I went through easily. Perithnea is leading the way, carefully stepping into the footprints she left the last time we were here. Each time she lifts her foot from a footprint, it disappears. The same thing is happening with my footprints.

"Books are jumbled all over the place. I'm sitting on a box watching her burrow through them like a gopher, with the books rising up and falling back as she goes through. She's bringing me a book I don't recognize. I'm opening it. The first page has a feather on it. I think she got the wrong book."

"Perithnea wouldn't waste your time with an irrelevant book. Keep looking," I said.

"I'm turning the page. I see a rock jutting up from the earth in the meadow beside the west peak where we found those rocks with symbols on them. It has a flat shape, but the back side is rounded. The side that I'm looking at is like the bottom quarter of a circle, making a crescent. There's a yellow light all around us. A bird that looks like an eagle is swooping down, but it's all the colors of the rainbow. Its talons are stretched out like it's going to grab hold of the rock. It grabbed but it missed. It flew away.

"I see Tanner. He's crawling toward the stone. He's standing up and dancing around the stone clockwise. Now he's dancing counterclockwise in a larger circle but not going completely around it. His steps follow a crescent
