Facts of Opal Gemstones

by Trent — February 23, 2015

Opal gemstone is an amazing stone that is popular for its flashes of rainbow colors. The spectrum of colors is created due to silica spheres within the opal stones. Due to the popularity of gemstone jewelry, opals are quite in limelight and many stores offer opals for sale. Opals from Australia are widely admired and used in jewelry. The stone has been in use for centuries and there are many myths that are associated with the stones that make people hesitant about the stone. Here are certain facts that you need to know about opal gemstone to take its maximum benefits.

People often think that they need to soak opals in water to prevent cracking; however, the fact is that it is non-porous and does not soak any liquid. The water content in the opal stone is determined when it is formed. Another important fact that you need to know about opal gemstone is that it is as hard as glass, so one needs to take care while wearing gemstone jewelry. You should avoid doing heavy manual work such as gardening, moving furniture, and other activities that may harm the opal stones.

People often think that they can prevent their opal gemstone by rubbing it with baby oil or glycerin. The fact is that rubbing oil does not solve any purpose and affects the life of the stone. The opals from Australia contain 5-6% of water and these stones are not damaged by water. The doublet and triplet opal stones are damaged when exposed to water for long as the glue deteriorates and the layers separate.

It is important that you protect your opal from heat and hot light, as it can expand and crack. It is a misconception that oils and detergents will discolor the opal gemstone jewelry. The fact is that oil, household items, detergents do not cause any damage, but bleach, chlorine, and strong chemicals can be harsh to the opal gemstone. One needs to treat their opal with respect and care. Often stores that offer opals for sale offer instructions to take care of the stone. Some people resist wearing opal stones because they think that it brings bad luck.

The fact is that opal is a precious stone that has been cherished by the civilizations for ages. The stone is a good luck talisman, which brings luck, happiness, prosperity, and solidarity to relations. The colors of opal do not come out from within the stone; in fact, the colors are caused because of the diffraction and reflection of white light that enters the stone. There are microscopic silica spheres within the stones that make the light bounce inside and create a prism effect. Opal stones have nothing to do with lightening and show no improvement in color because of leaving it in a lightening storm.

Opals are valuable gemstones that are used to create magnificent gemstone jewelry worn by men and women all over the world. It is important to know about the facts to avoid any superstitions. Opals by Anderson and Beattie have exclusive opals for sale that you can buy for yourself or gift your loved one.

Benefits Of Fire Opal

by Trent — February 20, 2015

The demand for fire opals is increasing day by day, as more and more people are becoming familiar with the beautiful gemstones that are symbol of abundance, passion, luck, and creativity. Opal stones have always caught the attention of people who are fascinated by gemstones and like to wear these stones in different types of jewelry. Fire opal is one of the most powerful opal stones that are known for its mystic properties as well as vivacious colors. It's warm glow and fiery look appeals all the gem lovers who just cannot overlook the radiant orange color of the fire opals. Like other opal stones, the fire opals are made of silicic acid and high water content. The color comes from the traces of iron oxide. Depending upon their quality, color, cut, the fire opals vary from each other. Some of the most popular fire opals include Mexican fire opal and black fire opal.

Mexico has rich deposits of fire opals and they are the finest opals, which has been in use since 14th century. Mexican fire opal stones have energies and forces, which emanate a feeling of warmth and well-being. The stone is worn by the wearers when they want to enhance a particular character in their personality. The fire opals are faceted and cut as a cabochon, as this shape allows the stone to glow at its best. Even the oval shape is much desired. The designers and gemstone cutters do a number of experiments with the stone to bring out its best. The opal stones have low hardness; therefore, it is quite challenging for the gem cutter to work with the stones. One also needs to protect the fire opals from heat, as they crack when dried. The old stone gets cloud and cracked due to loss of water content. The wearer needs to protect the Mexican fire opal from acids, alkaline solutions, and sharp things.

Fire opal benefits:

- Before you get fire opal for you, it is essential that you know about its benefits. One of the biggest fire opal benefits is that it brings luck and helps people; especially businesspersons take right decision. It encourages one to trust their instincts.

Best Opal Stone

by Trent — February 16, 2015

If you are October born, Opal is the stone for you. Opal, a unique gemstone, is a type of silica with varied water content. The stone is extensively used in jewelry to create beautiful pieces that are precious collection. Besides opal jewelry, the stone is used in carvings, inlays, and mosaics. They are often a beautiful and memorable gift. People born in the month of October wear Opal stones due to its mystic properties and potential to transform one's life.

The stones are available in an array of colors including red, yellow, orange, indigo, green, blue, and violet. You can buy loose opal stones or get opal jewelry online; however, it can be a daunting task, if you are not familiar with the opal stone value and its importance.

To buy opal jewelry, you must know how to identify the best opals, as many online stores sell imitation opals that are created in the labs and are used to create stunning jewelry. Imitation opal jewelry does not cost you much; however, if you plan to buy natural opal stones, then be prepared to shed some money, as it is precious stone and comes at a price. Also decide whether you want solid opal, a doublet, or a triplet. The solid opal stone price is quite high. The doublet consists of a thin piece of solid opal and another piece of black opal to increase its strength. The price of doublet opal stone is less as compared to solid. The triplet has a doublet with a dome of glass or quartz material on its top. It is the cheapest opal stone.

The next thing that you need to consider while buying opal jewelry is the color of the stone. The red opal is quite expensive followed by green and then blue. Even the brightness of the color determines the opal stone value. The opal stones from Australia are quality stones and quite valuable. The oval shapes are the most popular shapes available in the stores. Even people admire free form and like handmade jewelry that uses irregular shapes. Although regular sizes are available; however, you can also get customized jewelry.

The opal stone is quite fragile and therefore, it is important that it should be cut thickly. Fine, thin stone usually deteriorates in some time. You need to keep it clean and free of any traces of cosmetics or perspiration. The gemstone cannot bear the neglect. It is not a stone to be worn all the time. The opal stones are often cut in dome shape and set in pendants, rings, bracelets, pins, and earrings.

They look stunning with all types of dresses. The jewelers use the stone along with other stones such as sapphire, diamonds, rubies, and many more, so, if you want to enjoy the benefits of opal stone at price that you can afford, you need to find the best available opal stones. It will give you power, beauty, and financial prosperity. Make sure you get the opal jewelry from the best opal suppliers like Opal by Anderson-Beattie who are leaders in unset opal and fine opal jewelry.
