Overview

Grunwald Magnusson was always a lonely person, ever since childhood where he struggled to understand people. People were his antagonists. People were always interfering in his life. Why did his father give him this ridiculous name and leave him when he was only five years old? Only his father could tell him what to do with his life. He left him a coded message which took Grun months to decipher. The message was locked in a cabinet under the mirror which Grun was always frightened to look into. It had runic symbols running around it. His mother had given Grun the key when he turned twenty one. Grun had found another key in the cabinet and a letter. The letter was from his father. It said he must begin the quest? After much work Grun finally managed to find the hidden box. Why didn't his mother know anything about it, or anything relevant about his father? All she said was she was told by Grun's father never to sell the house and to give him the key.

Grun was on the threshold of something which would alter his life forever. The box which was buried in the outhouse under the floor contained an assortment of things. It would take Grun three years to even begin to understand them. The main thing was the book.

After another three months of decoding he found the second letter hidden behind the fitted bookshelf. The letter said that he should stand in front of the mirror at a certain time and he would be given certain powers!

The time was the spring equinox. Grun stood in front of the mirror at twelve o'clock. He meditated for several minutes with his eyes closed. When he opened them he could see a man writing a message on the inside of the mirror. He knew this man to be his father.

Grun had copied the message which remained for ten minutes after his father disappeared. Grun was disappointed at not being able to talk with his father but he knew that his father had Grun's welfare at heart. Grun started to practice the exercises which were given him. The details are too secret to reveal here.

Scene Forty Five: Area near Grun's house

Grun has been dropped off by the special branch near to his house, he has pressed the coin to become invisible, and he doesn't want any more deaths as a result of not being careful, he knows the S.A.S are around, and there are marksmen in place. He is fearful that the dragon might be too difficult to control. Seven more people have been burned to death as a result of straying too near to the house. Grun can see the dragon moving around the house, in a snakelike way; it has again, expanded its territory another fifty yards, and is many times larger than before; Grun now knows that it will keep doing this indefinitely, unless it is stopped. Grun looks around at the wasteland that used to be his neighborhood. How could his father have been foolish enough to leave this dreadful creature here, without the means to control it; he then realized that it was partly his own fault, he had accepted the power over the years and had also taken the initiations in the dream state; the dragon is tied to him in a way that he didn't realize before. Grun knows that with time, the dragon could destroy the world. Grun has to get inside the house, to access the great book, and get the spell, to send the dragon back to its own world.

Scene Forty Six: Emergency Meeting 10, Downing Street

Prime Minister:

What is the situation with Grun Magnusson?

Home Secretary:

We have tried to get information about him, but no one seems to know where he is. The Special Branch has told us that Magnusson was taken to a new location, but that he was then relocated; they will update us as soon as possible.

Prime Minister:

I'm not satisfied, we have a team of people waiting to interview him, and we can't even find him.

A security guard comes to the door to inform the home secretary that Grun has escaped.

Home Secretary:

Sir, I have to inform you that Grun Magnusson, has escaped.

Prime Minister:

What! This is outrageous; I want a full investigation into this fiasco.

The security guard comes back into the room to inform the home secretary that the relic, and the substitutes have been stolen.

Home Secretary:

Sir, I have to inform you that the relic has been stolen, from the British Library.

Prime Minister:

This is too much, I'm going to halt these proceedings for you to get the relevant information, and we will resume in two hours.

Scene Forty Seven: Special Branch HQ

Anna is now tired and frustrated with being held captive, she has just awoken from sleep, she dreamt about Grun; he told her that she could use the influence spell that he had given her, she decided to try it.
