

Win a Seat the 2005 World Series of Poker

So you want to play in this years World Series of Poker, but don't have $10,000 to cough up for the buy in fee. Well that's no problem. Last years champion Greg Raymer won the 5 million grand prize through a qualifying satellite that he played online. The year before that, Chris Moneymaker (yes that's his real name) won 2.5 million, how did he get a seat? He won a $40 buy-in satellite to get his seat.

There are 3 ways you can get a seat at the WSOP

1. Pay the $10,000 buy in
2. Qualify for a seat by playing and winning a WSOP satellite at the casino. They hold qualifying tournaments a few weeks before the championship event.
3. Qualify Online, for little cash. You can get started right now, and you don't even have to leave your house to qualify.

A lot of online poker rooms are giving away seats as part of their promotional efforts. The buy-ins range from only a buck to a few hundred. But, every WSOP satellite isn't created equal.

Competition amongst the sites is the most important factor to winning a seat. You see different rooms attract different levels of competition. Your best bet is to be playing at a site like PartyPoker or EmpirePoker. They have a lot of newbie's or "fish" and you have a better chance of winning the seat. Another factor you should consider is the buy-in for the satellite itself. The competition will be tougher in a $200 buy-in simply because a lot of novice players don't feel comfortable shelling out $200 bucks on a satellite. If you don't want to gamble a lot of money, we suggest you start with the $10 and under buy-ins. don't worry there are lots of these available at many sites. Some sites even have free buy-ins!

The best thing to do is play in a few low buy-in satellites at many different
