Acknowledgements

The acknowledgement of one's gratitude for assistance rendered is one of the more pleasant parts of preparing a book for publication, and in this book I have more than the usual number of thanks to express.

This book owes its assistance to a number of beneficial influences arising from many sources, but above them all I'd like to thank my aunt, Daisy, who before re-emerging back to her non-physical form taught me the disciplines, if she could hold this masterpiece in her hands, she'd know that she did a great job.

To my two lovely sisters, Sylvia and Millicent, my cousin Kinny. To my dear close friends who allowed me access into their lives in order for me to closely observe how they were different from the average men, Thapelo Maqame and Phalo Kgatlane.

To my uncle, who never had much but gave me the best he could afford, and to the rest of my family.

Last but not the least, to all those who contributed by letting me use their inspirational stories and quotes.

  - About The Author

Foreword

This book is about you and what you can become. It is about the simple things you can do everyday to make a significant difference in your life and at the same time impact those you meet along the way. It is about your purpose for being alive, it is about living in harmony with the Universe, it is about the magic of life and letting you know not only about the power that's around you, but the power within you. Because for a while now we have lost track of miracles by assuming that all life is what happens around us whereas real life is what happens within us.

"Deep within man dwell those slumbering powers, powers that would astonish him, that he never dreamed of possessing, forces that would revolutionize his life if aroused"

-Orison Swett Marden

From a very young age I was taught that all experiences and conditions, either favourable or unfavourable were effects, but I was never taught that their causes could be found within me. And so I lived under the impression that wealth and happiness were the results of doing things in a manner by which one totally depends on chance, without planning or a system in place, I lived hapazardly... and I was wrong to do so. I then went on to believe that the government, plutocrats, trust and mining magnates, captains of industries and politicians had monopolized all opportunities and were cornering all wealth, still I was wrong for I saw so many people getting wealthy right under my nose. I knew that I had to believe in something because I was taught that "every man who is to make his mark in the world must believe in something" and in one last desperate attempt I set out to become a doctor, I believed in my heart that in this way I would become wealthy, happy and healthy all at the same time, after all isn't that what life is all about? That was only until I came across a struggling doctor.

There and then I knew that profession had nothing to do with being wealthy and happy. Of course you will do best in a business or profession which you love, and which is congenial to you and suited to your locality; a Ferarri auto dealership would do better in the city than in the jungle. But aside these general limitations, wealth and happiness are not at all dependant upon your engaging in a certain business and this book will show you why.

After failing miserably for years as a young man and being wrong three times in a row I decided to make wealth a study, I sacrificed my time for the study of wealth and happiness and I must say, if you wish to become wealthy then study wealth, if you wish to become happy then study happiness, and if you wish to become both then study both. This kind of study should be made available in all public schools and those who wish to, may take them as a study or the number of men and women who go through life as failures in our world will rapidly keep increasing.

The fourth time around I got it right, some get it right the tenth time around, Thomas Edison got it wrong more than nine thousand times before he got it right when he invented a light bulb. And in this book I will reveal the mathematical certainty behind wealth and happiness. You can gain knowledge from your personal failures, or you can learn from those that failed, it's your choice to make. You don't need to get it wrong because all answers have been found and written in some book somewhere. WHY SHOULDN'T WE HAVE IT ALL?

After I got it right I became what some people call "lucky", I developed a very rare insight and became a man of character. I threw away my flawed beliefs and my silly 'blamelist' but it's clear that some people have found those flawed beliefs and that stupid 'blamelist' and are now using it themselves. Walk away from the eighty percent that's always complaining and join the twenty percent that's taking responsibility, that's the best decision you can ever make.

Nothing excites me like seeing a man or a woman get it right and goes on to take their 24 hours each day and turn it into a life that others die dreaming of, those kind of people that turn a few hours into millions in their bank accounts and are at the same time happy in their relationships, those are the people that the influence and the power of money is at their mercy. It has nothing to do with what they have; it is about what they have become, wealth and happiness are just a reflection of their true being... and believe me my friend, through these pages you will become the kind of person you've always wanted to become, because you can.

When I saw all the African tycoons, captains of certain industries and millionaires both men and women I wasn't consumed by the power of just their money. No. I was seeing the power of their focus. Their desires, their attitudes towards life, their thoughts about wealth and their actions put life into the money they held. Furthermore, their focus was so strong that the money they gave away carried with it the gift of their power. To become wealthy, happy and powerful requires two things: Being in harmony with the Universe and concentrating your energy, attention and focus on a specific goal, and this book will show you how. This is not to suggest that there are only two requirements to wealth and happiness because there are other ways, however, I suggest that you begin your search by focusing on these two fundamentals.

NOTE: This book is not meant to add on the much-written-upon subject of the power of the subconscious mind. Rather it is meant to stimulate men and women, both the young and the grown to the simple truth that; you can be what you will to be by virtue of the thoughts which you choose to entertain. We have done our best to use the simplest English and make it easy for everybody to understand. You will wish you could have been given this book as a life manual.

Introduction

Important notice: When the time is right the Universe will send the right book, to the right people. This is the book, and you're one of the few right people so when you read this book, know that it comes from the Universe, it's from the greatest authors the world has ever seen, from the finest philosophers that have ever walked the earth by far, world class athletes, business tycoons, famous actors and singers, from the biggest names that have ever lived, and from all the celebrated achievers in any field. Not all of them could write books but they all received lessons from life that they would love to share with you. When you read this book, take your time and read it like it was written for you and you alone, like the entire group of these high achievers had been watching your life on a big screen from the day you were born and they decided to all come together to share ideas on how to assist you as the author listened to what they had to say to you and took notes. This book came from the greatest men and women of the past and the living legends, all of them gathering together with one goal and mission in mind: YOUR PERSONAL SUCCESS AND HAPPINESS. Take it personally... it was written for you.

A happy moment, my friend, will seed a thousand more and you'll be receiving a few of those from today on... happy moments, not hoes.

Take it this way, you're invited to a party by a complete stranger to celebrate the life of someone you've never met, when you had other plans. Should you choose to attend, however irrational it may surely seem, upon presenting your invitation at the gate you'd notice that it was in your own handwriting. Then you'd be warmly greeted by the most wonderful, familiar faces- everyone so excited, like you, because it turns out, you're about to meet the person you've always dreamed you'd one day become.

It doesn't matter how young or old you are, it's never too early or too late to become the person you want to become and the time to become that person is now, there are no time limits to this thing. If I may use Appleton's words:

"I knew his face the moment that he passed. Truimphant in the thoughtless, cruel throng- I gently touched his arm- he smiled at me... he was the man that Once I Meant to Be!

Where I had failed, he'd won from life, Success; Where I had stumbled, with sure feet he stood;

From the Universe...To You

Alike- yet unlike-we faced the world, and through the stress he found that life was good. And I? The bitter wormwood in the glass, the shadowed way along which failures pass! Yet as I saw him thus, joy came to me- He was the man that I Once Meant to Be!

We did not speak. But in his sapient eyes I saw the spirit that had urged him on, the courage that had held him through the fight had once been mine. I thought, 'Can it be gone?' he felt that unasked question-felt it so, his pale lips formed the one word answer, 'No!'

Too late to win? No! Not too late for me- He is the Man that Still I mean to Be!"

Having a dream is really an awesome experience in itself.

Having that dream and showing up everyday to make it happen, even when nothing seems to be happening, is priceless.

But having a dream and showing up everyday, while sauntering, winking, and hugging everyone, is when the floodgates begin to tremble. And I bet you didn't know that today is World Sauntering Day. Sauntering, however, is not to be confused with sashay, prance, trot, or lollygag. The Universe is still lobbying for their own days.

Just one thing before me and you get to work on your world and giving you the revelation that's intended to rock your world and change how you see everything and more, here is a hint of this great study:

It's not the dazzling voice that makes a singer.

Or clever stories that make a great writer.

And it's not piles of money that make a tycoon.

It's having a dream and wanting to live it so greatly that one would rather move with it and 'fail' than succeed in another realm.

You so have what it takes. And at which point, of course, failure becomes impossible and joy becomes the real measure of success. I love you.

"A craven hung along the battle's edge, and thought, 'Had I a sword of keener steel- That blue blade that the king's son bears, -but this blunt thing! And lowering crept away and left the field. Then came the King's son, wounded, sore bestead and weaponless, and saw the broken sword, and ran and snatched

"Thanks", on behalf of all those in your life right now who are just too busy, or stressed, or sad to see how much you add to theirs. You mean the world to me.

CHAPTER ONE
A MESSAGE FROM THE UNIVERSE

Every day, you my friend, you move mountains, touch lives, and perform miracles. Every day you're a success, a hero, an example, and everyday you change the world. Actually there has not been a single day in your life when you've been anything but Magnificent.

You might not always see it, but everything, always plays to your greater good.

Things keep on getting better and better.

And you're already the kind of person you once dreamed you'd become.

ALL CHOKED UP!

In the process you've been learning to disassociate your dream's manifestations from the illusion that now surrounds you, to release yourself from the burden of figuring out the 'hows' and to trust what can't be seen.

Those are the high watermarks of creative enlightenment.

And you, I must say, you're disassociating, releasing and trusting like never before.

Sometimes, when circumstances or dissapointments bump you off track, it's the beginning of an even bigger dream coming true, that could not have come true on the track you were on.

Yeah, always... always.

Actually, it's not that you want stuff that you don't have, but that you want stuff that you think you don't have.

And the best way to change this is to begin thinking that you have it now.

If you can get sure in your purpose, your dance with life, whether it's in your home or the far flung reaches of the earth.

Understanding and appreciating your sacred place in eternity for the moment and the unrecoverable time that's been bequethed for the task, everything else will take care of itself.

And you're doing that so perfectly as you read this book.

WOW... YOU ROCK!!!!

So many people have never noticed the rhythm of nature, its flow or merely felt the breeze that carries the birds. They've never wondered as to who taught the earth to keep rotating around the sun, or who told the ocean; "you can only come this far", neither have they observed the stars and the moon hanging on nothing.

Well, the same power that keeps the earth rotating is within you, yes, you. The same force that holds the ocean from breaking boundaries can be found in your depth and the same hand that holds the moon and the stars from falling has its origin in the purpose of man living harmoniously. Before you were born, you existed in my mind. I knew you would be needed at this exact time in history and without you, I your God, I the Universe, I your Higher self (whatever you may choose to call me), I would not be complete. Without you there would be a void in humanity, in your family, in your community, in your country and in me; to grasp this concept will be extremely difficult if you're on a different frequency but then again I'm here to transit you into my frequency, because from the very start, from birth you were destined to discover the great secret of life. You were created with a special purpose that no-one but you could fulfill because no-one here on earth can do what you're here to do... for centuries this world has been yearning for your presence.

You have been destined for great things.

Regardless of your past failures and disappointments, have courage, have faith, be 'the kind of person' that sticks around, make them wonder why you're still smiling because the only thing standing between you and your magnificent life, the only thing in between you and your wealth is the person you've become and you can always get better. You cannot become a great person by waiting for the world to recognize your greatness, live a great life and let the world catch up to you. Once you discover how great and powerful you are, then your mind, heart and soul will never let you give up. You're a person of substance, you're very important, in fact, you're the reason the sun came up today.

No-one else in the entire Universe can do a better job of being you than you, no-one can do what you're here to do, so put that smile back on your face, don't let anything bring you down, you hold in your hands your own fate, you just have to be willing to go through whatever it takes to get to where you want to be. This is not about how hard you get hit, it is about how hard you can get hit and stand back up with a smile. And now having arranged and prepared for your arrival on earth for such a long time I could not let you get it all wrong and so I set out to place this book in your hands, I re-arranged myself, I touched someone somewhere and the chain was intended at you! SMILE, because you're that important to me that I would go that far just for you. The powers that rest in you are beyond measure and yes you can just go through life settling for whatever that comes to you but why would you do that? Now is the time to arouse those slumbering powers within you and in the next few pages you'll learn how, believe me, you're going to surprise yourself.

And once you master the art of using these powers then your life will no longer be limited, all your thoughts will break their bounds.

Your consciousness will expand in every direction and you my friend will find yourself in a whole new, great and wonderful world. Yours will be the life that others dream of. Your family will be proud of you.

Your friends will call you 'blessed'

Your neighbours and your competitors will call you 'favoured one', enemies will be green with envy and all those who see you will call you "lucky", critics will assume it's fate but you, my fellow, will have tapped the infinite, right from within and it will spread unto the nations. And all this will come as a result of becoming 'a certain kind of person'. If you have a singing talent you'll make a fortune by singing, if your passion is painting you won't dare do any other work but painting, you'll become rich, powerful and happy doing just what you love. If you're a great thinker you'll follow through the steps of Socrates whom was declared the wisest in his country and whom upon hearing this tried to prove it untrue by approaching those who had claimed some wisdom in order to question them about the virtues.

If you're a numbers person then you'll dedicate your life to mathematics and become greater than Pythagoras. The best book has not yet being written, the greatest engineer has not yet been seen, the best mathematician has not yet emerged because no man has yet used a quarter of his potential. About a hundred years ago everybody felt that there's nothing more to discover, today most of the people have the same perception; that everything has already been discovered, that everything that is there to be known is already revealed and maybe that's what you think but look at the world a hundred years from now and you'll understand. As Berton Braley puts it:

"For the best verse hasn't been rhymed yet, the best house hasn't been planned, the highest peak hasn't been climbed yet, the mightiest rivers aren't spanned;

Don't worry and fret, faint hearted, the chances have just begun, for the Best jobs haven't been started, the best work hasn't been done."

If you're a theology kind of person then you'll spend your life in theology and will possibly find a way to reconcile faith and reason like Thomas Aquinas intended: His theory for example, holds that the world is characterised by definite causal relations. According to him, if you use a stick to move a stone, then the stone is caused to move by the stick, which in turn is caused to move by your hand, and so on. In this chain of events, there are no uncaused causes; rather there are effects of previous causes, which then becomes causes themselves. However, the crucial point is that this backward chain of causality cannot continue indefinitely. At some point there must be an uncaused cause-the thing which started the whole chain of causes in the first place and according to Thomas, this uncaused cause is God.

The bottom line is, you'll spend your life doing what you love and if you desire, you will also accumulate wealth through that science as a result of applying the principles you're about to learn.

Because doing the work you love guarantees happiness in your work, not in your relationships and neither does it guarantee wealth. Wealth and happiness are the results of certain principles, principles you're about to discover.

Being happy and wealthy both at the same time is an art, it's a craft that anybody with a brain can master and perfect, it is mastered by 'being' and not 'having' and i will give you an illustration: For a moment think of several people you know who somehow seem to attract a steady flow of money. Don't they have something in common? Wealth and happiness seems to be a natural condition in their lives. If they lost everything, in a year or so they'd be basking in money again, wealth to them is as natural as water is for a river. Why's that?

Now take another moment and think of those people you heard of or know that once won vast amounts of money, conduct a special research on the matter and you'll find that only one out of ten of them is still wealthy and the rest have lost all their fortunes in a very short period of time, herein lies the difference between 'having' and 'being'. It's such a pity for a man that inherits a million dollars and yet is not a millionaire.

You attract success by the person you become, success is to be attracted and not persued.

The power is in you, and today you'll learn how to use it.
