

THE CHRONICLES
OF
ENGUERRAND DE MONSTRELET.
VOLUME VI

CONTENTS

CHAP. I.

Charles VI. king of France, dies in his hôtel of St Pol, and is interred at Saint Denis with his ancestors

CHAP. II.

Information of the death of king Charles the well-beloved is carried to his only son Charles the dauphin. Other matters

CHAP. III.

Charles the dauphin is crowned king of France, in consequence of his father's death

CHAP. IV.

The Parisians send an embassy to England, to young king Henry and to his ministers. Other matters

CHAP. V.

The captains of king Charles assemble in great numbers to raise the siege of Meulan. The duke of Bedford treats

with the garrison

CHAP. VI.

A copy of the treaty of Meulan

CHAP. VII.

The French take the fortress of Dommart in Ponthieu by escalado. And many other events

CHAP. VIII.

The dukes of Bedford, Burgundy and Brittany, meet at Amiens, and form a triple alliance

CHAP. IX.

Poton de Saintrailles and Lyonnel de Wandonne perform a combat at arms at Arras, in the presence of the duke of Burgundy

CHAP. X.

The earl of Salisbury besieges the castle of Mont-Aquilon, which surrenders to him. Other matters

CHAP. XI.

King Charles of France has the town of Crevant besieged by the constable of Scotland and the count de

Ventadour

CHAP. XII.

Many events briefly spoken of CHAP. XIII.

Sir James de Harcourt holds a conference with sir Raoul le Bouteiller for the surrender of Crotoy

CHAP. XIV.

Several events briefly touched upon

CHAP. XV.

The town of Compiègne is delivered up to the English. The town and castle of Crotoy are surrendered to the duke of Bedford

CHAP. XVI.

Two masters of arts are sent to Tournay to admonish the people, and to keep alive their affection to king Charles

CHAP. XVII.

Sir John de Luxembourg besieges the castle of Wiege. He lays an ambush, in which Poton de Saintrailles and his companions are made prisoners

CHAP. XVIII.

A large body of English arrive at Calais. Sir John de Luxembourg besieges the town of Guise. Other matters briefly spoken of CHAP. XIX.

The lord de Longueval and many other French lords turn to the party of king Charles CHAP. XX.

The duke of Bedford marches a large army to keep his appointment before Ivry. That town and castle surrender to him

CHAP. XXI.

The duke of Bedford combats the French before Verneuil

CHAP. XXII.

The inhabitants of Tournay rebel against their magistrates

CHAP. XXIII.

The garrison of Guise capitulate to sir John de Luxembourg and sir Thomas

Rampstone

CHAP. XXIV.

The dukes of Bedford and of Burgundy endeavour to make up the quarrel between the dukes of Gloucester and of Brabant

CHAP. XXV.

The duke and duchess of Gloucester leave Calais for Hainault, to receive the allegiance of the principal towns of that country. The duke of Burgundy makes preparations to aid his cousin the duke of Brabant

CHAP. XXVI.

The duke of Gloucester sends a letter to the duke of Burgundy. A copy thereof

CHAP. XXVII.

Copy of the answer of the duke of Burgundy to, the letter from the duke of Gloucester

CHAP. XXVIII.

Copy of the second letter sent by the duke of Gloucester to the duke of Burgundy

CHAP. XXIX.

The duke of Burgundy returns to Flanders, whence he sends his answer to the duke of Gloucester's letter. A copy thereof

CHAP. XXX.

The town of Braine in Hainault taken and destroyed by the allies of the duke of Brabant

CHAP. XXXI.

Pope Martin sends his bull to duke John of Brabant. Its contents

CHAP. XXXII.

After the departure of the duke of Gloucester, a war takes place in Hainault. The duchess Jacqueline writes to the duke of Gloucester for assistance. The contents of her letter

CHAP. XXXIII.

The dukes of Bedford and of Burgundy meet in the town of Dourlens. Other matters

CHAP. XXXIV.

The sultan of Egypt and Saracens determine to conquer the whole kingdom of Cyprus

CHAP. XXXV.

The duke of Burgundy makes great preparations to combat the duke of Glocester. Other matters

CHAP. XXXVI.

The duchess Jacqueline of Bavaria escapes in disguise from Ghent, and goes to Holland

CHAP. XXXVII.

The duke of Bedford prevents the combat between the dukes of Burgundy and Glocester. Other events

CHAP. XXXVIII.

The lord Fitzwalter arrives in Holland to the aid of the duchess Jacqueline

CHAP. XXXIX.

The duke of Burgundy returns to Holland, and besieges the town of Zeneuberche, which surrenders to him.
Other matters

CHAP. XL.

The Saracens return to Cyprus. A battle between them and the Cypriots, in which the king is made prisoner,

and carried to the sultan

CHAP. XLI.

The castle of Moyennes in Champagne surprised by the French.
The pope gives sentence in favour of the duke of Brabant. The fortress of Oripecte in Provence won by treachery

CHAP. XLII.

The duke of Bedford lays siege to Montargis. The siege is raised by the French. Other events briefly touched on

CHAP. XLIII.

The castle of Malmaison, belonging to the bishop of Cambrai, is taken by sir
John Blondel. Other events

CHAP. XLIV.

Sir John Blondel surrenders the castle of Malmaison, which he had taken from the bishop of Cambrai

CHAP. XLV.

The duke of Burgundy returns to Holland, and attacks the town of Hermontfort. Other events

CHAP. XLVI.

The sultan of Babylon writes letters to the princes in Christendom. The tenour of these letters

CHAP. XLVII.

The English invade Brittany, where they do great damages. Other matters

CHAP. XLVIII.

Sir John de Luxembourg besieges Beaumont in Argonne

CHAP. XLIX.

A treaty concluded between the duke of Burgundy and the duchess Jacqueline, which ends the war in Holland. The contents of this treaty.

CHAP. L.

The earl of Salisbury arrives in France with great reinforcements to the duke of Bedford. The duke of Burgundy escorts the duchess Jacqueline into Hainault

CHAP. LI.

The townsmen of Tournay again rebel

CHAP. LII.

The earl of Salisbury conquers
Gergeau and other places near Orleans. The duke of Bedford wants to lay hands on the revenues of the church

CHAP. LIII.

The earl of Salisbury lays siege to the town of Orleans. He is there slain

CHAP. LIV.

A preacher called friar Thomas, converts many persons, and inveighs against the extravagant dresses of the women, in different places

CHAP. LV.

A grand tournament in the city of Brussels

CHAP. LVI.

The count de Namur dies, and makes the duke of Burgundy his heir

CHAP. LVII.

The English, marching to reinforce the siege of Orleans, are met and attacked

by the French

CHAP. LVIII.

A maiden, named Joan, waits on king Charles at Chinon, where he resided. The king retains her in his service

CHAP. LIX.

Ambassadors are sent by king Charles, and the burghers of Orleans, to Paris, to negotiate a treaty with the regent, that the town of Orleans may remain in peace

CHAP. LX.

The maid with many noble French captains of great renown reinforce and revictual the town of Orleans, and afterward raise the siege

CHAP. LXI.

The king of France, at the requests of the maid Joan and the noble captains in Orleans, sends them a large reinforcement of men at arms to pursue his enemies

CHAP. LXII.

The maid Joan, with the constable of France, the duke d'Alençon, and their men, conquer the town of Gergeau.

The battle of Pataye, when the French defeat the English

CHAP. LXIII.

The duke of Burgundy, at the request of the duke of Bedford, comes to Paris, when they renew their alliances

CHAP. LXIV.

King Charles of France takes the field with a numerous body of chivalry and men at arms. Many towns and castles submit to him on his march

CHAP. LXV.

King Charles of France with a noble chivalry and a numerous body of men at arms, arrives at Rheims, where he is crowned by the archbishop of Rheims

CHAP. LXVI.

The duke of Bedford assembles a large army to combat king Charles. He sends a letter to the king

CHAP. LXVII.

The armies of Charles king of France and of the regent duke of Bedford

meet near to Mont Epiloy

CHAP. LXVIII.

King Charles of France sends ambassadors to the duke of Burgundy
at Arras

CHAP. LXIX.

The lord de Longueval conquers the castle of Aumale from the English

CHAP. LXX.

The town of Compiègne surrenders to the French. The return of the French embassy which had been sent to the duke of Burgundy

CHAP. LXXI.

The king of France makes an attack on the city of Paris

CHAP. LXXII.

The duke of Burgundy sends ambassadors to Amiens, to keep up his interest with the inhabitants

CHAP. LXXIII.

Charles king of France returns to Touraine and Berry

CHAP. LXXIV.

Duke Philip of Burgundy conducts his sister back to Paris, in great pomp to her lord the duke of Bedford

CHAP. LXXV.

The French and Burgundians attack each other, notwithstanding the truce

CHAP. LXXVI.

The lord de Saveuses and the bastard de St Pol are made prisoners by the French, near to Paris. A party of French gain the town of St Denis by scalado

CHAP. LXXVII.

The English make many conquests

CHAP. LXXVIII.

The duke of Burgundy marries, for the third time, the lady Isabella, daughter to the king of Portugal

CHAP. LXXIX.

Estienne de Vignolles, surnamed La Hire, surprises and takes the town of Louviers, in Normandy

CHAP. LXXX.

The duke of Burgundy institutes, this year, the order of the golden fleece

CHAP. LXXXI.

The lord de Crevecoeur and sir Robert de Saveuses are attacked by the French on their march to Clermont in the Beauvoisis

CHAP. LXXXII.

Five Frenchmen combat five Burgundians at Arras, and other matters

CHAP. LXXXIII.

The duke of Burgundy quarters his army at Gournay sur Aronde

CHAP. LXXXIV.

The duke of Burgundy lays siege to the castle of Choisy, which he conquers in a few days

CHAP. LXXXV.

Joan the maid overthrows Franquet d'Arras, and has his head cut off

CHAP. LXXXVI.

Réné duke of Bar lays siege to Chappes, near to Troyes in Champagne

CHAP. LXXXVII.

The maid is taken prisoner by the Burgundians before Compiègne

CHAP. LXXXVIII.

Young king Henry of England disembarks at Calais and comes to France

CHAP. LXXXIX.

After the capture of the maid, the duke of Burgundy encamps his army before Compiègne

CHAP. XC.

The Liegeois raise a large army, and invade the country of Namur

CHAP. XCI.

The duke of Burgundy sends the lord
de Croy to the county of Namur against the Liegeois

CHAP. XCII.

The earl of Huntingdon comes to the aid of the duke of Burgundy before

Thank You for previewing this eBook

You can read the full version of this eBook in different formats:

- HTML (Free /Available to everyone)
- PDF / TXT (Available to V.I.P. members. Free Standard members can access up to 5 PDF/TXT eBooks per month each month)
- Epub & Mobipocket (Exclusive to V.I.P. members)

To download this full book, simply select the format you desire below

