Hi Guys & Dolls...

The gorgeous Natalie INDYA West is on our cover in a classy, yet raunchy pose. The back cover pairs to this with a little black lace.

We're sharing smiles this month with the Moonfruit discount code and by supporting a great project from singer Leanne Louise, September Sofa Sessions. My current favourite track? J. Balvin & Willy William - Mi Gente. In this issue I get chatting with glam rock band INDYA who are proud acts alongside Republica later this year.

INDYA discusses her inspiration coming from her darkest days, maybe it will inspire a few of you readers too. Our friends at Right Chord Music have some important updates which utilizes new developments in technology to help rising musicians.

David takes us through the art of learning, explaining that should open our minds and not remain with a select group of topics. In fact, a friend refers this idea of having many skills as being like a human Swiss army knife! Sarah is our guide at Chicago's Windy City Smokeout, country music and barbeque - what more could you want? On screen the Channel 4 network talk about the film Country Music and documentary Public Enemies: Jay Z vs Kanye. Adverts which caught our attention musically are from Uber, Kopparberg and Samsung. Steve throws it back with A Riot In Heaven and explains why Mauritius truly has talent.

We've got your festival guide, radio listings and new music from Lee Pearce, Juicy M, Tuff Culture, Ninetoes and Diives.

Ruby x

Our friends at Right Chord Music are always developing how they help independent talent. Their aim has always been to support the industry with new strategies without having to rely on "the man". I love their success in rebellion. Two new developments are that they've switched their Lost On Radio podcast to regular Spotify playlists and their RCMHangout Festival is making its way to Facebook Live.

Lost On Radio began as a Podcast back in 2011. Our aim was to showcase incredible new artists that were being overlooked by radio, or pushed to the late night fringes.

The Lost On Playlist will continue to champion the best new, undiscovered and under appreciated music in our inbox. Curated by the RCM editorial team it's a democracy, if we love it, we playlist it. No radio pluggers or PRs required.

Back in 2013 frustrated with bad promoters and bad live music experiences, we decided to create a new live music platform. The RCMHangout Sessions and ultimately The RCMHangout Festival were born. Our festival became one of the first online only music festivals using Google+ Hangouts On Air. Bands and artists played live from their homes to the world via the RCM blog.

This summer we want to revisit the concept, this time harnessing the power of Facebook Live we'll stream incredible new and undiscovered music directly into your news feed. Taking place over on the 18th-20th August we will invite bands and artists to take over the RCM Facebook page and broadcast live to the world.

The background of the entire image is a dense stack of old, leather-bound books. The pages are yellowed with age, and the spines of the books are visible, creating a textured, layered effect. The text is overlaid on this background in a white, serif font.

ART OF LEARNING

If you just choose to learn a particular skill, what you are good at is limited only to that of which you have learnt.

But if you learn how to learn and get good at it, the possibilities are endless. Not only could you excel in any skill and perform well at any given task, but you could tackle any circumstance life throws at you!

By learning to not only open your mind but your heart as well, you would be able to connect with others more easily and your relationships would grow much stronger.

By studying the art of learning, your outlook on life would also be opened to one of much beauty, possibility, and positivity.

- David

WINDY CITY SMOKEOUT: Chicago's hottest country and barbeque festival. It is in a huge parking lot on the middle of downtown Chicago, and has a load of restaurant vendors serving their best barbeque and beer. There were two stages, and in between were bags games, picnic tables and cut-outs to take a picture behind. The coolest thing was that the parking lot was right next to the Chicago River, so it was a picture-perfect spot and we saw a bunch of people on a kayak tour. What a summer night!

How this feature works: Each day will have notes on one of the headliners and one specific artist to keep an eye on in the future.

FRIDAY

HEADLINER: JAKE OWEN

I mean a SMOKIN' hot country boy who performs barefoot and covers Beyoncé's "Crazy in Love," what more could you expect? You might remember him having shoulder-length hair from his earlier years, but post-divorce he chopped it off, looks amazing and sings even better. Honestly, I couldn't handle how great he was and had to leave the crowd to stuff my face with some ribs as some spontaneous emotional eating adventure. The one song that got everyone hyped was "Anywhere with You," which has a good drop in the beginning of the chorus which builds up to the end.

TO LOOK OUT FOR: MICHAEL TYLER

I did not know this guy before the festival, but his music is great. He has the swooped Justin Bieber hair that throws it back to the early 2000's. Most of his music was released this year, but he is already starring in showcases and was considered the "headliner" at the new artist stage.
