HEALTH & SAFETY AT WAR

A Brief report by Col. Mel Careful

As the Health & Safety Officer in charge of our brave men and women operating in Iraq and Afghanistan I have prepared the following report which I hope my superiors will take into account when planning future conflicts.

1) War. War is dangerous. During a battle soldiers may be asked to charge the enemy. This poses a great danger of them tripping and thereby grazing their knees.

2) Noise. The second Health & Safety issue comes with noise. Battlefields are notoriously noisy with guns being fired, grenades being thrown and artillery shells exploding. All these can harm the fighting man's sensitive eardrums.

3) Battlefields rarely have adequate toilet facilities. This can lead to innumerable diseases and also risk the combatant being seen while performing the toilet which can be very distressing.

4) Battle-fatigues do nothing for a soldier's self-esteem. If the fighting man were permitted to do battle in his dress uniform it would do wonders for morale.

5) The combat soldier needs a lot of calories to perform his duties but catering is notably poor in a battle zone. Restaurant Areas should be set aside with proper 4 Star facilities where proper nutrition can be taken in a relaxing ambiance.

6) Battlefields are also notoriously dirty and host a multitude of germs which can become ingrained under a soldier's fingernails. Proper washing facilities should be offered to our troops before and after every engagement with the enemy. Wet wipes are not acceptable.

7) Though this may not apply to all soldiers or indeed to all situations, the mountainous terrain of Afghanistan does pose the question of dealing with soldiers with phobias. In this case it would be the fear of heights (acrophobia). Counsellors to deal with this should be available before deployment.

WAR COUNCIL OF THE DEGRON IMPERIUM

Minutes of the Meeting of the Council on 2321.900.xbk

Subject: Planet Earth/Human Beings

Present: Cllr Korag (Leader of the Council); Warlord Struek; Cllrs Lood, Openg and Jabbra; Jazba Kildo (secretary)

Captain Fuer of Exploration Ship Zivre report by Telecast

Cllr Korag opened the meeting and made introductions before asking Captain Fuer to make his report.

FUER: As you know, gentlemen, I was tasked by this Council to take my ship, Zivre, and discover the nature of the human beings of the planet known as Earth. I aim to provide a series of reports on their various achievements and cultures so that you can decide if they pose a threat to the Imperium. I will begin, therefore, with many things which make these Humans differ from we Degron. Firstly, is their habit of rubbing heir mouth parts together. They call this a 'kiss' and do it frequently and to many others.

LOOD: Your pardon, but do they not use their mouth parts for eating, as we do?

FUER: They do indeed, but also for this 'kissing'.

OPENG: What function does it serve?

FUER: None, that we can ascertain.

KORAG: It does not seem like any kind of threat. Pray continue.

FUER: They also refer to each other, on occasion, as the end of their alimentary canal.

LOOD: I fail to understand.

FUER: The anus, Cllr. They call each other, anus. Though colloquially it is referred to as 'asshole'.

JABBRA: They call each other anus?

FUER: Frequently. Both as an insult and as a friendly greeting.

JABBRA: The anus is a most useful piece of the anatomy. I would be proud to be an asshole.

FUER: They also vent digestive gases from the anus. They call it farting.

LOOD: They do not have a bypass which moves the foul gases to their feet so that it will be furthest away from their scent organs?

FUER: No. They fart.

LOOD: There is a flaw in their biological make-up then. Unless their scent organs are also misplaced.

FUER: No, they are in the nose, as are ours.

LOOD: Thank Mash.

ALL: All hail, Mash.

KORAG: But again, no threat to us. What matters it to the Imperium if these primitives wander about in their own stink?

TELECAST LOST. SESSION WILL RESUME WHEN CONTACT IS RE-ESTABLISHED

ARE YOU HOBOSEXUAL?

Many homosexual men who are having difficulty in finding a partner may want to consider hobosexuality as an alternative. Hobosexuality is where you have sexual relations with hoboes, tramps or vagrants and this is not only a fun pastime, but also provides a social service to those less fortunate than oneself. Let's face it, these rejects of society need love too and will greatly appreciate you taking them out to dinner and, perhaps, dancing, before you whisk them off to your apartment for a shower and a night of passion.

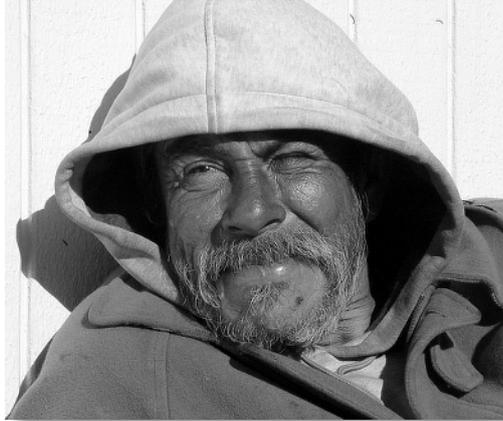

Many of these men will have been married and had settled lives before they fell down the ladder of life and may be loathe to take up a homosexual relationship, but a steak dinner and a good bottle of Rioja can weaken many wills. Do emphasise, however, that you are not buying their body. Try to keep the romance in the relationship by paying them compliments such as how bowled over you are by the length of their stubble and how they don't smell too bad, after a while.

Try to avoid talking about their past and how they really screwed up their lives and don't be impatient while they're showering. Scraping off years of grime can take time, and do get in some extra strong soaps and shampoos together with durable scrubbing brushes. While they're in the bathroom you can get the bed ready by turning down the covers, lighting some incense and putting on some mood music.

Many gay men have said they fear that a hobo will rip them off and they will wake up to find their worldly possessions gone, but surely a small loss is worth it for some vigorous man-love.

EXPLORERS CONQUER SOUTH FACE

OF ELSIE PRENDERGAST

A team of explorers has finally conquered the daunting south face of Mrs Elsie Prendergast. The team, led by noted mountaineer Sir Ralph Crampon, took five years to reach her peak, but achieved success last week by planting the Union Jack on her snow covered summit.

"I was quite surprised when the Royal Exploration Society asked me to make the attempt," said Sir Ralph, "The north face is quite approachable and is quite a fun climb for the experienced climber, but the south face is known as a man-killer. We had hoped for native bearers, but even they were too scared to face up to the perils of the south face. Some regard the south face of Mrs Prendergast as a deity and think we have committed sacrilege by climbing it."

This was proved when the local villagers burned Sir Ralph in effigy but also took the opportunity to set alight some garden waste and the forty years of National Geographic they had accumulated.

"We thought we might need oxygen," continued Sir Ralph, "but that's not because of the rarefied atmosphere, it's because the south face of Elsie Prendergast smells so awful. As it was we managed it just by holding our breath."

Three members of the six man team did not return, all falling into the dangerous feature of the south face of Elsie Prendergast known as 'the crack'.

SCIENTIST INVENTS TIME MACHINE

Professor Stan Bonkers, a scientist of no fixed abode, has claimed that he has created a time machine, travelled to the past and witnessed many historical event.

"I have seen the building of the pyramids, the sinking of the Spanish Armada and I was even present at the Sermon on the Mount. Great gig, what a performer that Jesus was, a real crowd pleaser."

Professor Bonkers has not yet perfected his device to travel to the future and says that the methods he uses do not allow him to bring back any artefacts from the past or affect past events.

"My machine creates a temporal bubble which encloses the time traveller," he explained, "and transports him to the time of his choosing. However I cannot guarantee accuracy as one time I thought I was in medieval England due to the smelly peasants, only to discover I was at Woodstock. I also cannot take photographs as cameras do not work from within the bubble and to leave it would be folly as one could be stranded in the past if one was captured by marauding Vikings or the bubble collapsed due to an electrical fault. I am a master of temporal mechanics but not very good with soldering."

Professor Bonkers has a long history of making outlandish claims and has served time for financial fraud.

He's got the Professor KNOWLEDGE Pete

Professor Pete gives you indispensable advice on all your problems.

BALDING

Dear Pete,
I am only in my late 20s but I have started losing my hair. I have a dread of going bald as I am unmarried and the chances of finding a woman willing to marry a bald man are probably nil. Don't suggest a wig as I think they just look stupid, but surely modern medical science can do something.
Juan, Madrid

Dear Juan,
You should look on the positive side. Your running and swimming speeds will increase as the lack of hair will cause less air and water resistance. You will also save money on haircuts, combs and hair gels. Baldness might be a positive boon, my friend.
Pete

AROUSED

Dear Professor,
I would be the first to admit that I am not greatly experienced when it comes to matters of sex but is it really true that men can become aroused by literally anything? I only ask because my cousin Ralph seems to get very frisky at the sight of female TV newsreaders.
Cherie, Plymouth

Dear Cherie,
The human male animal's ability to get aroused by anything and everything is well known. Calum McDair found pelicans very stimulating, while Norrie Bates had a thing for ceramics and Dave Grant got quite wobbly at the sight of a naked gearbox. It's best not to dwell on these things.
Pete

DUMPED

Dear Prof,
My GF, who I was with for almost a year, has left me for another guy and I've been on my own for over a month. Do you think I'll ever meet somebody else? I am 19.
George, Cal. U.

Dear George,
At your age you're better off without a regular girlfriend as this will allow you to investigate the underwear of many young women. Sticking to one gal is depriving many needy young women of your attentions. Do it for humanity.

Pete

CHARITY

Dear Pete,
My wife has run away with a Polish plumber and this has made me eternally grateful to the Polish people. I feel that I should repay them in some way and there must be a charity I could donate to. Perhaps one for short-sighted tradesmen?
Marty, Manchester

Dear Marty,
There is no specific organisation for short-sighted tradesmen I can find in the Polish charity register, but perhaps you could slip a few quid to the Myopic Sewage Workers & Related Trades Benevolent Fund. They accept donations in vodka.
Pete

TELEPATHY

Dear Professor Pete,
As you are so wise, you are no doubt telepathic. I am, therefore sending you my actual question through the power of my mind. Please respond in kind.
Magic Mike, Cork

Dear Mike,
I have, of course, received your question but refuse to reply by telepathy as the call charges are extortionate. The answers you require are (a) Yes (b) any lubricant and (c) you may have to sedate the wildebeest first.
Pete

DEMURE

Dear Pete,
I'm going out on a date with Ray Cobley next week and I don't know what to wear. The thing is he went out with my friend Candy a few months ago and she told me that he was all hands, if you know what I mean. Now, I don't want Ray to get his mitts on any of my personal bits yet, but I really like him and don't want to put him off by looking too demure. So, what do I wear?
Chrissy, Ottawa

Dear Chrissy,
I think you can let young Ray have free access to the back of your calves and your forearms. This should give him the message that you are not entirely an ice queen and if he hangs around long enough you might let him feel your elbows.
Pete

GLOBAL WARMING OUT OF HAND

Climate change experts have claimed that global warming has led to so many changes in the natural order of things that the human race may never return to the status quo it once knew.

"There will be no Francis Rossi for one thing," said Dr Ken Swelter at the Institute for Applied Exaggeration in Leeds, England.

He added, "The rise of obesity in the west is directly caused by the citizens eating ice cream to cool themselves down."

He followed this with a list of things he attributes to the rise in global temperatures caused by human actions.

"Barrack Obama becoming US president is because of global warming, as is Spain winning the soccer World Cup. The war in Iraq, the rise in the cost of Russian gas, the Greek economic crisis and my Aunt Maud getting pregnant. We cannot continue like this."

His Aunt Maud's condition seemed an odd event to being into this list of cases but brought the following response. "She was sunbathing in a bikini in her garden, due to the global warming, when she was spotted by a chap who was overcome by lustiness at the sight of her semi-naked body. Nature took its course in the spare bedroom, mainly because my uncle Malcolm was off working on the North Sea Oil Rigs."

To solve the crisis Dr Swelter is proposing building a giant air conditioning unit and locating it in the Sahara Desert. "It has to be a quality AC unit," he insisted, "because a crummy one just won't do the job. Powering it will be expensive but it doesn't have to be on all the time. It could be controlled by a thermostat. My Aunt Maud is looking for a guy called Geoff, by the way. Tall, brown hair, tattoo on his upper thigh. If you bump into him, do pass on his whereabouts to her."

RIGHT OF REPLY

AS A RESPONSIBLE PUBLICATION WE HAVE MANAGED TO TRACK DOWN THE GEOFF REFERRED TO ABOVE AND OFFERED HIM THE CHANCE TO MAKE A STATEMENT IN REBUTTAL.

It's a pack of lies. For a start Maud is in her 50s and that picture above is of her niece, Gwen. As to stating that I was overcome with lustiness at the sight of her in a bikini, that is nonsense. When I first saw her she was in such a decrepit state I thought she was deceased. It was only when she waved at me that I realised she was still alive. She asked me to help her shift some furniture which was, admittedly, in her spare bedroom, but once there she leapt on me and had her evil way with me. I was not in a position to resist as I was weak following a bout of plague which I contracted while doing missionary work in Africa. Maud told me she was on the pill and I had nothing to worry about in the way of contraception. But it later came out that she was desperate to get pregnant by another man to prove to Malcolm that she was still attractive and desirable.

Other than that, I agree with everything Ken says about the global warming thing.
