THE RAINBOW BRIDGE

Ways to Remember Your Pet

The poem, “Rainbow Bridge,” describes lush meadows and hills where your pet can play after their passing until the day you are reunited.

While this poem has become a favorite among loving pet parents who are dealing with the loss of their cherished companion there are a few other ways to find comfort during this difficult time.

Here are a few unique ways to remember your pet that will help you honor their loyal companionship while keeping their memory strong.

CREATE A BOOKSHELF MEMORIAL

Place your favorite pet mementos front and center by dedicating a shelf to them.

If you chose pet cremation, then this shelf is the perfect place to display the urn.

Keepsake boxes can also be filled with pet tags, collars and favorite toys to provide you with a place to visit when you want to remember the good times you shared.

PET FOOD PLANTER

After your pet has passed, you can create a living garden that is as bright as their wagging tail.

Simply fill your pet's food and water dishes with soil and some cheerful flower blooms.

Then, place it near your pet's favorite resting spot or right by your front door as a reminder of how they always greeted you with love.

PET PAW PRINT

Having a print of your pet's paw is a lovely keepsake that can be used throughout your home.

Try framing the print along with a copy of “Rainbow Bridge,” and hang it on your wall.

Alternatively, you could turn the paw print into a stepping stone for your outdoor garden.

Many families also use the paw print to create holiday ornaments that can be hung with care each year.
