Green Card

I had a green card, to be a US citizen

I never wanted to be a ruler of a nation,

Timelessly I wondered, and loved my adventure time

I looked through the journey, I searched and went on without a crime

I didn't get caught up, with the desire of many

I hearkened and kept with me the tales of the free

I learned stories of old through books

I read and understood the wisdom and hooks

Through traveling by myself and by reading the sign of the heavens

I became greater than many, peering through the stars

There are stars on the books, there are stars on the sky

They both have names you can identify them with, and they reside on high

There were responsibilities, there was a lot of obstacles

There was governing bodies, and there were me without many shoes

There are only two parties, I was told so I can hear “America is the greatest”, royalty is not near

“There is nothing better than us”, “we are the strongest nation of them all”

“When we died in the future someday, we might end up in heaven, after we grow”.

I then proceed to ask them, “do you not then end up as Royalty?”

“Why then do you think, you might end up, better than me”?

“There are many Monarchies, across the globe , then if you believe you die and go to a heavenly palace, are not the earthy Royals better than you all”?

Falter and falter, the arguments of old,

Green cards, and journeys are the mix of it all

I was given a path to explore,
I think I did well taking my own route Because without using the tools they had,
I finished the course.

Yale Vs. Harvard man

Royalties are the new democrats, Romans are the new Republicans,

In the ending of it all, I would rather be the latter

There is Yale in Royale, there is man in Roman

I do not trust the David Hume colored school, I trust and prefer the human

They care about money, there care about good feelings

I can't eat one, and neither do I trust the other one

Yale was made by Harvard, and Romans made Royales

I would rather be the person that created them in time

Romans are strongest and faster, we are better suited to live in this world

Some Royals do not deserve to exist, neither should their lies be ever tolerated, and much like the French revolution, down with them all

Shrewd I may be in my stories, but I still bear hatred for what royales do

Dragon and stag combats, human shield and swords I bear with my arms, need may arise, I will go to war

They will learn the error of their ways, at the wrath of my sword on while they lie, and I am true

The Wild Media

I am in favor of Prince Andrew, though some many not know him,

I am against the wild media, that has left his name in tatters

He should never have had his titles, stripped, nor should he have borne the scorn of his own people

He is a good person, who is innocent and advocated for parties, and his side of the story has no hearers

He fought hard for his country, he defended British territories against invading Argentina,

He is still a soldier, a brave warrior, who deserves to be praised, I would be delighted to be a member of his family

His kind wife and heirs are amazing too, and they should never be hated because of absurd gossip or abused

When you look back, and weigh the ups and down of his life, anyone who is sane, should prefer his history

The Failure of Money

Democracy and money, Republicans and lions, Authors and Titles, Royalty and Palaces

These are all the endings, where there are endings, there is a beginning

While I start to share my perspective, on lingering where we are My body takes shape, of sometime more divine than a human, much like palaces restructure the body shape of Princes, Kings and Emperors

The feet, slowly start to form the gastrocnemius muscles to a different organ than normal humans,

In return, the legs, then the organs to the point where the riches show up on individuals,

When you leave the area, there is a timeline, much like University grounds, where they plant the trees around the campus to fit the mascot, They organize events to suit the architecture of the animal they want or the supernatural creature they want to make accepted on the grounds

Here and there they wonder, while the body

Takes shape, and evolves to become something different

Where after leaving for a certain time, the body adopts to new shape and form

The house they live in, where they make their nest is unique to most Especially since they are educated in colleges

Money fails here because when you start to destroy in the body in favor of Royal pleasures,

The body starts to abound the original shape it was created to have

When humans break the laws of gravity, where opposites attract, and same kinds repel in the animal kingdom,

The physique is destroyed, and the education leaves with it

In due time, Kings, lose their form, and when they in return lose their Majesty and splendor in favor of money, they get thrown out and overthrown

Ending to Education

All education ends at being a human, though the aspiration is pink,

Although all Universities have mascots are that animals,
The tremulous count of the schools, makes you sit and think About why they want to creation nations

Good students are a positive addition to countries The cities grow healthy when their minds are good

Educational facilities should not be factories

We should not make a lot because we can As stories continue, the faithful ones and the reasonable fall out

There is no truth in man or woman shaping as animal

Since there will be opposition faced gladly, or without will and doubt

It's not that there is nothing wrong with animals

My criticism images from understanding without obsession

You can eat certain herbivore, and so do other carnivores

I like to imagine myself not going out feeling hard emotion

Wild animals roam free in some countries, like hyenas

Yet, some animals are favored over others and at times

I want a unique one for myself

In a capitalist world, where they adjust their system to when it rains

Trust is not a commodity that you find freely

Some sentences are changed and altered,

The motto of Colleges adjusts harshly

Hero's do not exist and and constitutions are repaired

They are put away from one another

Meaning losses it's taste, and instead of divinity, beastly nature takes over

We are not inept creatures, who are fragile I am strong and I am a person who has character, though I am clearer

When I write and speak verbally I should not be underestimated, because at my age, I have outlived many species globally My ancestors and I, lived hard, loved well, and turned a new page

And my name is the human species.
I have beat Alligators and Komodo dragons, I have beat Gorillas

I have challenged Whales, and sea turtles, I have climbed high mountains and gone through tough passes

Not most species can venture on!

David Hume and Jeremy Bentham

Hume and Bentham end, begin, and fail at Royalty

Because they advocate in favor of money

They drew guidelines and instructions how how to earn it well

Their ideas although big, to the roman - they are tiny

Whether fighting hard in number, or looing good in them

While choosing who you love, might not be much of a problem,

Their philosophy ends at Royalty and never carry you towards

Rome

Conquer as you please and may, anyone and every day,

Although the strength of their dedication is shown in their ardour

Large foes and good looking offences are just for show and gaining fame,

I would not see fit to tell anyone of my military strategies, then it might look good or pleasing or it might not

I do not want to tell anyone of my numbers, because I might face defeat

I do not want to sell out my civilians, or my Military and in this concept, deadlocked in the heat,

The concept of Hume would lead to a loss.

Much like concepts such as age of not flawed,

Production and food consumption comes in to play to derail

Bentham

I love cakes and beef, and I even dream of being like a carnivore,

Having my stomach full of meat to the brim,

Bentham's failure is the reliance on others to feel,

Where I can just do that with a culinary scheme.

Leviathan

Leviathan is a good tale, which I learned and studied a while back

Back when I was a student, a stupendous worker, who did not trail from the pack

There creature is said to reside in the waters, but it can also be a discretion of a city - state larger than a country

Levi, can also be the human race, and it can be about the tale of how we have accelerated in growth and matured philosophically

Leviathan can be the ocean, the deep clarity of the water,
And how the large density feels the void on the land,
And there is no way to stop the oceans from rising,
There is no way to stop the oceans from taking the life of humans, Where tsunamis and waves that hit the rocks of the shores,
Are everlasting and there is a conflict between the land and the water,
Where the water chops, a few arms of the rock,
