"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. All things were made by Him. In Him was life; and the life was the light of men. And the light shines in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not."

Elohim, the trinitarian God, spoke creation into being through the Word. Although creation would sink into great darkness, Elohim had a master plan - a plan so mysterious that not even the angels understood it at first. As the Word, He would destroy death (through His own death) and a new creation would come into being through His resurrection.

Elohim is a Trinity (Father, Son, and Holy Spirit), meaning He is three Persons in One, a deep mystery impossible to understand. He has no beginning and He has no end. He is all-knowing, all-powerful, everywhere-present, and completely just and righteous in character. He is the Creator of the universe and all that is within it, including galaxies, planets, stars, and moons, many of which are located light years apart from each other. Elohim's Record Book, known as the Bible, reveals that He is not alone in eternity, for He has created many creatures.

Elohim's creatures have different properties and seem to exist in alternate, or parallel realms. Some move in the spiritual realm while others exist in a physical realm. However these domains can overlap, with spiritual beings associating with physical ones.

Elohim's angels were part of His creation, designed to act as His messengers, swift as the wind and fierce as flaming fire. In the Book of Enoch 1 seven archangels are named - Michael, Gabriel, Raphael, Uriel, Raguel, Saraquel, and Remiel. Michael and Gabriel, two of the highest angels, are the Creator's special messengers. They are often mentioned in the Bible.

(The Book of Enoch 1 is not in the Canon of the Bible, but the apostles Jude, James, and Peter quoted from it, thereby relegating at least parts of it as being divinely inspired.)

Elohim created the earth with everything on it, including the oceans, land, fish, birds, and animals. In one part of the earth, Elohim made a garden called Eden, a particularly lovely place where momentous things were to happen.

Elohim created Adam and Eve, two humans who were placed in the Garden of Eden and instructed to make it fruitful. They were without sin and morally neutral, having never made a decision either for or against righteousness. Elohim gave them a choice by giving them a test of obedience, which they failed. They were told not to eat of a Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil in the midst of the Garden, but they followed the lethal advice of a talking serpent and willfully rebelled against Elohim. From that moment on they became sinful and doomed to die spiritually, and later on physically.

Elohim had been aware that His human creation would rebel against Him, choosing death instead of the Life which He desired for them. However it was necessary to let them choose so that they would be able to return Elohim's love and form a close relationship with Him. If they had remained morally neutral, that could never have happened. Because sin had now entered the human world, there were negative consequences. Adam and Eve were now steeped in guilt and they felt alienated from Elohim. Adam was told that his labor would be hard from now on, and Eve's birth labor would be hard as well. Both were expelled from the beautiful Garden of Eden and prevented from returning by an angelic guard. They now had to make their way in a much less hospitable environment.

The serpent also bore Elohim's judgement because it had tempted Adam and Eve and led them into sin. Elohim pronounced that He would put enmity between it's seed (offspring) and the seed of the woman. He also stated that "He shall bruise your head, and you shall bruise His heel." This was a cryptic prophecy that would have dramatic fulfillment in the future. The serpent's identity has been associated with a fallen archangel, or Watcher, called Lucifer (also referred to as Satan) who had been expelled from heaven earlier. Some Bible scholars believe Satan entered into the body of the serpent and in this way was able to communicate with Eve.

A high order of angelic being were the Watchers as described in the book of Enoch 1, a book revealing what occurred in pre-flood times. The Watchers were like the archangels, very great in power and knowledge. They had been present when the human race was created and they had counselled with Elohim around His throne and performed His decrees. Just as Elohim had given Adam and Eve a choice to either obey or defy Him, He had done the same with the angelic realm. Many of Elohim's angels had chosen to be faithful to the Creator, but some did not.

The Watchers knew well that Elohim was a Creator of order and that all of His creatures had their place in the divine scheme of things. They were designed to manoeuvre in their own realm but they were also given the task to oversee the humans on the earth. However when they saw that human women were fair to look upon, a plan formed in their minds to put forth their own agenda in defiance of Elohim. They would usurp humanity to become divine imagers (gods) and spawn progeny of their own who would take over the earth and rule humanity under their guidance and control. It was a coup against the Creator's purpose and will for His human creation. Making an oath to defy Elohim, they descended on Mt. Hermon to put their plan into effect. The Bible says they took 'wives' among human women, any they chose, and the women bore children to them.

Elohim consigned the rebels to imprisonment in a dark place called the Abyss, where they would remain bound until their judgement at the end of the world. An eternal Lake of Fire awaits them. According to Enoch 1, the archangels Serial, Gabriel, and Michael were responsible for binding the wicked Watchers in the Abyss.

The progeny of the Watchers and human women were the Nephilim. They were giants of great stature, heroes of renown, fierce hunters, and warring fighters. They lived together with humans for hundreds of years in pre flood times, quickly spreading over the earth and becoming increasingly evil. At first they forced the humans to provide for them from their resources, but it was not long before the humans were unable to meet their gargantuan demands. Then the giants began to cannibalize humans and even one another, drinking blood to satisfy their raging appetites. They also desecrated the animal kingdom, profaning all that the Creator had so carefully and lovingly designed. Their wickedness was so great, and spread so quickly, that the Creator was deeply grieved in His heart and regretted ever having made both the Watchers, and the human race.

Enoch 1 mentions the archangel Gabriel being tasked with destroying the Nephilim by causing them to war with each other. Enoch describes Gabriel as “one of the holy angels, who is over Paradise and the serpents and the Cherubim.”
