THAT BOOK

You have sometimes pondered over the book shelf searching for a book to read. Often times, you've considered a book for reading because someone had pre-commented about them. Books are like ancient treasure boxes with diamonds within that would not be available to the average intellectual who does not open them. The diamond may be inside the box but the box has to be open to find them.

Have you ever wondered what catapults a book to bestseller positions? How would a book titled "You" fare in the bookstores? You might not have had the time to ponder on these. Memoirs have been written of persons that have distinguished themselves as best sellers. These books made the best-seller charts because they share the story, the kind people desire to read about; stories that influence lives and give life meaning.

This book seeks to kindle that fire for propulsion to a higher realm of purpose. God has deposited in us diamonds that can enrich a waiting world. They are waiting to read about your success at publishing your book. Bookshops can't wait to have a copy of it. Libraries are having your book stocked. Readers are craving to have "That Book". Welcome to this experience. I hope you will read and share. Someone too will have to read this.

THE TITLE

Every book is defined by a title. There are many considerations during the process of formation of a title. Most books have inspiring titles. The titles are meant to attract the readers to consider the book for readership. There is a stint of inspiration about you that draw the attention of passersby. There is an attraction that you generate. This attraction is God's inspiring covering having called you out of this world to be the "Child of light". He has called you out to be the "Son of God". He has molded you “blessed of the Lord” and has mentored you a “child of his covenant”. All these and more are inspiring titles that God has considered worthy to pour upon his children.

Every title epitomizes a message to the intending reader. It represents in a short phrase of what would be expected from the book. When God offers a title, he titles us showing an expectation and demand of us. God says we are “children of light”; the expectation is that we show forth the light of God. We are defined “sons of God” then we must like true “sons of God” be. We have been modeled, children of his covenant; the expectation is to keep his covenant to the latter. The people around us expect you to project the titles upon which God has given us.

Titles of books do not rise from the blues; they are obtained from a certain level of inspiration drawn from something around or a Devine personality. Many titles that captivate you were spiritually revealed. God reveals the title to the authors upon which they are given the inspiration to make books out of them. You as a book have a divinely inspired title from the word of God. Remember the word of God is spirit and life. God's word says, that in the beginning was the word and the word was with God and the word was God. Every title God has given you is from the word of God and the word is God himself. What a reassurance God is giving us that we can trust in him for a better life, an interesting life, and an accomplished life. We can be rest assured that if we hope on God, we can source from his milk of revelation and inspiration.

There is no need to strain your eyes. You can read them without any need of external aid. God has given you a glaring title for all to see. You do not have to try to make others see them. They are seen already. It's clearly and boldly written. You are meant to shine forth without stress. Everything around you shows a glaring undertone of a title God has given you.

Be proud of your new title. Celebrate your identity. Remember a candle cannot be hidden under a bushel but it will have to be placed on a candlestick to be seen of the persons around. Wisdom, therefore, demands that you put on God's title.

Be proud of your title in God; exemplify it for he has called you out, a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, zealous of good works. Find joy and happiness in the fact that you have a title God has given you to fulfill his purpose on earth. Many are wishing they were opportune to share in the opportunities your title would give you. They are hoping they had the chance to live it. You must therefore count yourself opportune that you bear the titles that you bear. Accept the title, have the title, breath the title. Inspire the world. Get the world talking about your book from the word go. Fascinate them. They can't but read you. They want to and would love to. Give them more than a reason to read you. Get the God title; you would be getting the best title yet.

THE COVER

Every great book has a great cover. There is no book published without a cover. This cover varies in forms; hardcover and softcover, glossy or plain. The cover's nature depends largely on the cost as well as durability; the publisher intends it to be. The essence of the cover is for protection. God has placed upon you a great cover. He is shielding you from wearing out. There is a health cover he is given you. God realizes that for you to be that success, your health has to be secured. The essence of the cover is to keep the contents of the book intact. God is assuring us of good health. His word lets us know that with good health shall he satisfy us. God is giving us a cover of protection and health. He wants us to have a clean bill of health.

The cover of every book is made in such a way as to attract the reader. Even if the book has a great content, if the cover does not look attractive, it may end up as one of those books on the shelves. For this reason, publishers take their time to design carefully the back covers of their books. You need to observe that God wants us to look attractive. He wants a shining you. He desires us to look blistering. He wants people to see, desire and emulate the good life that we represent. Without even having to come close to you, God wants the readers to wonder at what is inside you. You are an attraction for God himself says that you are made in his image and likeness and like him, you will draw all men.

The design of the cover of a book requires painstaking attention and skill. God took the time to create you. Imagine all the time it took God to create man. It took God the whole day working with the son, spirit and other heavenly bodies. God was assured that he had made man perfectly in his own image. God was proud to say that indeed he had made man, someone like them. Imagine all the expertise God had put into perfecting you. Through all the days and months in your mother's womb; he got you through all those months. You never added anything to yourself but he kept working on you consistently. God is so proud of his work of creation and he has assured you that because he created you, you will be a great book. God has perfected his work in you. Your nose, eyes, face, body are all testimonies of this creation. Wow!!! What a beauty you are.

Every cover design projects a message about the book. The designer looks at the content and designs the cover that projects the book. That is how God has made you. Your outlook is the projection of your content. Those who work in the banking industry, law or other well-paying industries project the quality of their jobs by the nature of their dressing. These jobs normally have a dress code that ensures those that work with them look all attractive speaking volumes about their profession. God has clothed you with his love. You are an embodiment of his protective garment. If God could beautify the lilies of the field when he said no one has been as clothed as them even Solomon in his grandeur, then wonder what he will do for you. He will make you a beauty to behold. Everywhere you are seen, you will project Christ-likeness.

The cover of every book bears the title of the book. You can't see any cover page without a title. The title is always boldly written so that any person who considers the book would see the title from afar. The cover page is meant to pass across to the reader, the summary of the book. In the same vein, the cloth of holiness and Godly perfection which you wear is showing the essence of God's identity that you possess. By your distinct outlook, you are portraying the inevitable grace of God that God has richly blessed you with. Remember that saying? As you dress so you'd be addressed. It speaks volume of Gods clothing us with the cloth of humility and Christ-likeness. When you dress Christ, you become Christ essence and ambassador.

Remember every great book has a great cover. And what else would be that cover than God's spiritual essence filled in the grace that abounds abundantly in us. Your book called you will be an embodiment of the glory of God.

You will be called a Christian not only because of your words but by how people view you. Get the best cover, get the best protection. It pays.

THE PUBLISHERS

Jesus Christ gave the word and great was the company that published it. Jesus had a systematic order of publishers; first his disciples, then the apostles and then as many as believed. Christ was dazed with enormous publishers; he had so many of them. Everyone, both Dick, and Harry wanted to be associated with the words of Jesus. Jesus left a perfect example that we current inhabitants of gory earth must emulate. Your words, life, conduct can go ahead to be the testimony that people can attest to. Take for example a brilliant student who had schooled under a professor and happens to find that professor on the bench of an interview panel. He'd certainly find favor because his professor will publish the worthiness of that student even without the student having to do so much to impress.

In the book writing process, the publishers are positioned to ensure the book is available to readers. The publishers advertise the book and have an interaction with the bookshops that would do the final selling. They have very wide reach in many nations especially the very renowned publishing houses like Lantern, Tyndale etc. When people read your life, they make comments and they'd give recommendations to others who should take a cue from you.

Why and how do you think recommendations are made? They are made because the person being recommended has been found to have the virtues worthy of
