

Introduction

A television was showing a late-night talk show called the "Bob Owen Show".

Bob: Thank you for tuning in, I am Bob Owen and this is the Bob Owen show. For those who are just tuning in, our topic for tonight is "Do our planets actually have feelings?". It has been an interesting conversation and we have heard many points of views from believers and skeptics. I have with me a very special guest tonight. He is one of the highest officials from our beloved Temple of Nature on Unison Continent. High Priest Quan Lee.

The crowd applauded and cheered as High Priest Lee waved at them and sat down.

Bob: Thank you so much for being here.

Lee: Thanks for having me Bob.

Bob: Tonight, you have heard many points of views from our topic of discussion. With you being from the Temple of Nature, what kind of insight can you shed here?

Lee: It has been interesting indeed. Some people had some astounding points. With me being the High Priest of the Temple, I can assure you our planets do have feelings and it has been communicating them to us. We're just too blind to see it.

Bob: What kind of feelings do you think our planet have towards us?

Lee: Honestly Bob, our planet is fed up with us.

Bob: Why do you say that?

Lee: Just think of it. Every time a natural disaster happens that is our planet displaying its emotions upon us. You ever notice that every time a war starts, or something tragic happens, a natural disaster takes place? Our planet was doing great before mankind settled on this beautiful planet 100,000 years ago. Same with Earth, this planet is no different and humans have been treating it like crap. Just like they do on Earth.

Bob: So, you are saying Mother Nature would kill thousands of people just because she is mad at us. That is cruel don't you think?

Lee: Yes, Mother Nature can be cruel, but not as cruel as human nature. Have you watched nature at its finest? The way the animals interact in their own habitat is amazing. You will notice the only time they kill is if they are hungry or if personal territory is invaded. Of course, humans are the same, but humans kill animals for sport which is causing a lot of species to become endangered. We kill each other over race, political disagreements, sex, religion, social status, gangs, sexual preference, etc. The list goes on and on. We pollute the air, land, and water. There are wars going on where thousands of innocent people are having their lives ruined and even losing their lives because two country leaders can't settle disagreements between themselves. There is no change taken place, so yes, Mother Nature and the planet is fed up. You never know they could be plotting against us right now.

CHAPTER 1: Ginia

OUTSIDE THE PLANET GINIA.

Ginia is basically a larger version of Earth but has a thick ring around it like Saturn. There is a massive space station that orbits the planet called The Outer World Observation Center (OWOC). This space station provides dozens of important functions for the planet and the galaxy. It is a checkpoint for intergalactic travel, a docking and rest area for space ships traveling between planets, and most importantly it monitors a lot of the planet's activity such as weather, the ozone content, surveillance, and more. The space station looks like a giant metallic egg with 3 large metallic rings connected to it.

Captain Leroy Jenkins, a suave looking African American male, was summoned to the observation headquarters.

Leroy: Adam, Lloyd, what's the status of everything?

Adam: Well, there is a couple of irregularities that we called you in for.

Leroy: What's going on?

Lloyd: We have seen temperature fluctuations in the atmosphere and on land.

They walked to a screen that showed a display of Ginia on it.

Adam: One of the main issues is the ozone over Industry City has decreased by 50 percent since yesterday.

Leroy: 50 percent in just 24 hours. How is that possible? I know all the pollution in the area has been slowly eating the ozone for a while, but how could it have decreased that much in such a short period of time?

Adam: We are in the process of determining that. It's a major concern because it's the time of year where Ginia is closest to the sun and no ozone means no heat barrier. The people there could be cooked alive if the ozone in that area disappears.

Leroy: I will issue the warning out to them.

Lloyd: Besides the temperature fluctuations, it looks like we're reading heat spikes in the areas volcanoes are located. They have been reporting mini tremors all around the globe as well.

Leroy: All volcanoes, even Mt. Finine?

Lloyd: Yes sir.

Adam: The last thing we have, we picked something up on the sound radar earlier. It could be nothing, but we just want you to hear it and get your take on it.

Leroy: Let's hear it.

They walked to the Sonic Sound room. Leroy put on the headphones and Adam played the sound. "Pretty Young Thing" by Michael Jackson was playing. Leroy started bobbing his head to the song.

Leroy: I am pretty sure Michael Jackson was not what you wanted me to hear.

Adam: No sir, sorry about that.

Adam played the right sound. It sounds like electrical humming, rain, and a female crying.

Leroy: It sounds like someone is crying. Where did this come from?

Adam: It was facing the planet when we picked it up.

Lloyd: We were thinking that we probably had it amplified too much and picked up some women crying. But the coordinates that we picked up the sound is in the Sand Ocean of Monochello Continent.

Leroy: Who knows, we may have just recorded our own planet crying. We will have to confirm that. I will send this to the Temple of Nature. They will know.

ON THE PLANET GINIA.

UNISON CONTINENT

50 miles east of Unison City, there is a huge military base school, and sanctuary called Unison District. A tall, handsome, African American young man named Markus Avery, was sleeping. He was suddenly woken up when his phone started ringing and someone was banging on his door.

Markus: (to himself) You got to be kidding me.

He answered his phone first and it was his friend Josh.

Markus: (on the phone) What the hell do you want Josh?

Josh: Yo, hurry up and answer your door.

Markus hung up his phone and then opened the door for Josh. Josh is a tall, skinny, Hispanic young man.

Josh: We are being summoned my brother.

Markus: By who?

Josh: Instructor Natalie. She wants us to meet up with the team at the Temple of Nature.

Markus: Great, a temple mission.

Josh: Those are the best one's man.

Markus: You must have forgotten what happened the last mission.

Josh: No, I didn't forget. Unfortunate events led to you getting violated by cannibalistic gnomes. It was funny as hell.

Markus: That's not even fair man.

Josh: Life isn't fair, and you know I will never let you forget that.

Markus: So, we meet up at the Temple. When does she want us there?

Josh: 1700 hours.

Markus: Sounds good. I got time to take care of a few things before I go.

Markus's dorm room looked like a luxury 1-bedroom apartment. He had a lot of Nature type pictures and paintings hanging on his wall. Josh picked up a picture of their squad.

Josh: It's crazy how we started off with 20 people and now down to 7.

Markus: That damn war with Octo District cost us a lot.

Josh: Thank God, it's over now.

Markus: Yeah, it still could have been avoided in my opinion. We had to intervene with a civil war that had nothing to do with us.

Josh: That may be true, but we still saved a lot of people.

Markus: Yeah, we did. I am going to get ready. I'll see you at the Temple.

Josh: Okay. I gotta gas up my Airship anyway.

Markus and Josh gave their secret handshake and then Josh left.

ON RIED CONTINENT.

Industry City is a large industrial city full of factories. This is the planet's most polluted city due to the smog, car exhaust, and factory smoke. There was a massive heat wave over the city. Caitlyn, a 10-year-old Caucasian girl, was walking home. She was drenched in sweat. She walked into the house and her granddad was watching the news.

The reporter was standing in the street of downtown.

Reporter: Today has reached record breaking heat in Industry City. Residents have been warned to wear their Extreme Sun Block because the temperature has reached 150 degrees. Ladies and Gentlemen this is a dangerous situation as many have already either died or been hospitalized due to heat stroke. The Governor has issued a mandatory evacuation since the heat is predicted to rise.

Grandad changed the channel to another news report.

Reporter 2: A huge battle has erupted in the village of Gripton on Monochello Continent. Local rebels have engaged in a gunfight with the Octo District soldiers resulting in about 60 people losing their lives including women and children.

Grandad: Wow what is going on with our world?

Caitlyn walked inside.

Caitlyn: Grandad I'm home.

Grandad: Thank God. I got worried for a minute. They're evacuating the city. I got you a plane ticket to Unison Continent so you can stay at the Temple of Nature. I want you to go get packed because it leaves in 2 hours.

Caitlyn: No problem. I will be ready in 10 minutes.

Caitlyn ran upstairs and packed her clothes. She pulled out a necklace that had a pink diamond as its pendant. The pink diamond was glowing.

Caitlyn: (to herself) I never seen it do that before.

Grandad: HURRY UP SO WE CAN GET THE HELL OUT OF HERE!

Caitlyn: I'M COMING!

MONOCHELLO CONTINENT

At the Octo District, Headmaster Johnson was sitting at his desk watching the news. General Brown walked in.

Brown: Headmaster Johnson.

Johnson: General Brown, how long have you been working for me?

Brown: About 4 years now.

Johnson: Yes, and in these 2 years have I ever had an "Open Door" policy where you can just come in whenever you please.

Brown: (confused) No sir.

Johnson: So, let's start this over shall we.

General Brown walked out the office and closed the door. He started giving Headmaster Johnson the middle finger on the other side of the door before he started knocking.

Johnson: That's better. Come in.

General Brown walked in.

Johnson: Did you see the news recently? These rebels are growing in numbers and is posing an actual threat to us. Unison District gave them too much hope.

Brown: Well, on a good note, our Search Team found that Yellow Diamond you sent them to find.

Johnson: Where did they find it?

Brown: In the middle of the Sand Ocean. Many of them lost their lives to get that for you Headmaster.

Johnson: Their deaths won't be in vain.

Brown: Sir, you do know these are Idacast Diamonds. They rightfully belong where they are or at the Temple. Removing them from their place could be a devastating blow to the planet.

Johnson: Nothing has happened yet. Now let's go find the other ones. We will be rich beyond our wildest dreams and can buy this planet or any planet we want.

Brown: With all due respect, there are other treasures out there that will make you rich.

Johnson: Are you doubting my plans? It's bad enough I had to surrender to Unison District. Once we make the "Peace Speech" tomorrow at the World Conference, we will collect all the diamonds and start the process.

ON AVALINE CONTINENT.

Avaline Continent is the Arctic of Ginia. It is always covered in snow. They will get at least 2 months of good spring weather before it becomes come cold again. On Mt. Glacius, a couple, Amy and Mike, were hiking. There was a blizzard making the hike difficult. They made it to a secret cave.

Amy: Hey Mike, look at this.

Mike: It's beautiful in here.

The cave walls were made of crystal clear ice crystals. The stalagmite and stalactites were also crystal clear. It looked as if they were in a cave made of glass. Mike and Amy continued to explore the cave. They made to huge room with a blue, basketball sized diamond floating in the middle of the room.

Mike: Oh my God. Is this one of the Idacast Diamonds the Temple was talking about?

Amy: It looks like it.

In the background, a giant, orange, lizard like eye was watching them.

Mike: We need to inform the Temple that we found one of the diamonds.

Amy: Don't touch it babe. Remember there is always some Guardian that protects these diamonds.

They walked out the cave and the giant eye that was watching them closed.

CHAPTER 2: Hurricane Heather

Over Ried Continent, Caitlyn was on the plane headed to Unison Continent. She was watching the Bob Owen show. It was the segment with High Priest Lee. Caitlyn's necklace started glowing again. The flight attendants were handing out food. Suddenly, the plane shook violently. The flight captains turned on the seat belt signs.

Pilot: Ladies and Gentlemen, if I could please have you return to your seats and fasten your seat belts. It's going to be a bumpy ride.

In the cockpit, the pilots were fastening their seat belts.

Pilot: The weather service said that there are storms forming within seconds in the area that we are passing thru.

Co-Pilot: Within seconds?

Pilot: Yes, as in it is taking seconds for thunderstorms to form.

Storm clouds started quickly forming. The clouds were very dark gray and some were pitch black. The turbulence made the plane shake violently. A lot of people were holding on for life, some were praying, crying, and a couple people were having fun with it. Caitlyn looked out the window and saw nothing but constant lightning flashes illuminating the thunder clouds.

Co-Pilot: What should we do?

Pilot: Increase the speed and get out this area.

The pilots made the plane go faster. The turbulence stopped and they were finally in the clear.

Pilot: Well, you don't see that every day.

AT RIED DISTRICT.

Jolin, a beautiful Asian young lady, was training her martial arts in the gym. Her friend, Lalaine, a Hispanic young lady, walked in in uniform.

Lalaine: Jolin, guess what?

Jolin: What's up Lalaine?

Lalaine: Guess.

Jolin: You're pregnant?

Lalaine: NO!

Jolin: You're going to try to get pregnant?

Lalaine: No. Okay stop guessing.

Jolin: Then what is it?

Lalaine: I passed the Instructor's Test this morning and they are promoting me to Instructor also. They're transferring me to the Unison District today just like you.

Jolin: (excited) Yes, so both of us are going to Unison District. Thank God, I thought I was going to be there all alone.

Lalaine: Yup. Why are you in here training? Shouldn't you be getting packed? The flight leaves in like 2 hours.

They heard a loud clap of thunder outside so they ran to the hallway. A lot of people were gathered looking out the window. It was downpouring.

Lalaine: I thought was wasn't supposed to get rain today.

Jolin: Well hopefully they don't cancel the flight because of the weather or else we won't be leaving until tonight.

ON TANAMO CONTINENT

There was a tour group taking a tour through the jungle.

Tour Guide: As you can see, our jungle is the world's most luxurious jungles on the planet.

Tourist 1: What about the reputation of it being the planet's most dangerous jungle.

Tour Guide: It just depends on what part of the jungle you are in. There are a lot of dangerous creature lurking around, along with poisonous plants and insects. You must know what part of the jungle they reside in. Our tour path does not cross into any hostile territory. Now ladies and gentlemen, once we get up this hill, you will see the most spectacular view of Mt. Finine.

They made it up the hill and the crowd was amazed by the view of Mt. Finine. Mt. Finine is a dead super volcano the size of Mt. Everest. The tourist got out the bus and started taking pictures.

Tour Guide: Mt. Finine is the world's largest super volcano. Its last eruption was about 300,000 years ago; in which it was an extinction level event.

Tourist 2: Is it dead?

Tour Guide: Yes, it is. We don't have to worry about an eruption in our lifetime.

A mini tremor shook the ground. The tourist and tour guide looked around in confusion. The tour guide looked at the base of the volcano and saw there was steam coming from it. Deeper into the jungle, two forest rangers were walking.

Forest Ranger 1: Another scenario, what if a huge bear pops out of nowhere and just started beating the shit out of you. Not even eating you, just beating you to a pulp.

Forest Ranger 2: Where the hell do you come up with these things man?

Forest Ranger 1: I don't know, they just pop up.

Forest Ranger 2 stopped.

Forest Ranger 1: What's wrong?

Forest Ranger2: Just listen.

Forest Ranger 1: I don't hear anything.

Forest Ranger 2: Exactly. The jungle isn't silent like this. We would hear something. Birds, insects, animals running around, it's too damn quiet.

Forest Ranger 1: Wow, I wonder what is going on.

UNISON CONTINENT

In the cafeteria, Markus and Josh was getting food from the buffet.

Markus: What type of mission do you think it is?

Josh: I'm betting it is either a search and rescue, or a treasure hunt?

Markus: You can't bet on both; it must be only one thing you're betting on.

Josh: Fine, I bet it's a treasure hunt.

Markus: And I bet it is a search and rescue

Josh: How much?

Markus: 20 dollars.

Josh: You're on.

They sat down and the news was on. It was a weather report.

Josh: HOLY SHIT LOOK AT THE SIZE OF THAT STORM!

Markus: TURN UP THE T.V.

Someone turned up the T.V.

Reporter on T.V.: This massive storm developed in just an hour. Storms with this intensity takes about 2 days to get to a category 5 storm. Hurricane Heather is now headed towards the northeast area of Monochello Continent. Everyone on Fort City, and all towns and villages are ordered to evacuate the area immediately before the storm hits.

While they we're watching the news, a group of students were talking loud. Markus threw his biscuit at them.

Markus: HEY, shut up, we are trying to watch this because we're the ones that will have to do search and rescue when shit hit the fan.

2 Security Guards walked up to Markus and Josh.

Guard: The Headmaster would like to speak with you in his office. Could you please follow us?

Markus and Josh looked at each other in confusion. As they were walking to the office, they were trying to figure out why they were being called.

Josh: Markus, what you do this time?

Markus: I didn't do anything, what did you do?

Josh: Nothing.

Markus: Did you sleep with his sister again?

Josh: No. Did you kill another one of his dogs?

Markus: No, and the last dog I killed of his was by accident.

Josh: Yeah right.

Markus: Should we just make a run for it and say these guys never came to us?

Josh: We'd have to head straight for the temple.

Markus: Let's go then.

Markus and Josh started running and the guards chased them.

OUTSIDE GINIA.

In O.W.O.C, Captain Jenkins walked in the headquarters and met up with Adam and Lloyd.

Jenkins: It's been 3 hours and we got a category 5 hurricane that appeared out of nowhere in Ried Continent. How the hell did that happen? You think it has anything to do with the rising heat due to the ozone.

Adam: It's hard to say, but we have a big issue with the hurricane. Besides the winds being clocked at 250 mph and it is producing a shit ton of tornadoes, you need to look at one thing that makes this catastrophic.

Lloyd pulled up a satellite of the hurricane.

Jenkins: It's already completely out of Ried Continent and head towards Monochello Continent.

Lloyd: You see the areas that are neon green?

Jenkins: Yes, there's a lot of them.

Adam: The hurricane formed over the most polluted area of Ried Continent. Those green spots are areas of highly concentrated hydrofluoric and sulfuric acid.

Jenkins: How do we know that?

Lloyd: There are a lot of reports stating the rain was eating the metal before communications cut off.

Jenkins: Hopefully a lot of people evacuate like they were told.

They looked out the window to view the storm on Ginia.

Jenkins: They called a World Conference, so I must get to Ginia. It shouldn't last long. You two hold down the fort while I am gone.

Adam: No problem Captain.

Jenkins: Anything else happens let me know so I can let the World Leaders know.

BACK ON GINIA

In the middle of the ocean between Ried Continent and Monochello Continent. A group of hurricane hunters were flying towards the hurricane in a huge plane. There were 2 pilots and 3 meteorologists inside the plane.

Pilot 1: We will be approaching the storm in 1 minute.

The plane looked like it was headed into a huge cloud wall. The clouds were pitch black with lightning flashing constantly. As the plane made it to the storm, the turbulence became heavy.

M1: Winds are being clocked at 250 miles per hour.

M2: Wow.

Pilot: I can't see anything in front.

It looked like they were driving at night with no lights on. The lightning illuminated the clouds and rain around them. Then they made it to an area where the clouds turned neon green.

Pilot: Hey guys look at this.

The glass and metal of the plane started dissolving instantly.
