ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Included in my acknowledgments I would like to mention all those out there who are dearest and closest to my heart. I would also acknowledge those who have not been so lucky. All on their own I guess to those of whom I have not. Each unto their own, and on that note I would like to also include a greeting to those who I've yet to meet. Including all of you out there. And to my dedicated readers who've reached this milestone of writing with me. And so be it: All on our own.

HEAVENLY TUNED GALAXY

The entire galaxy contains billions of stars. Not just one or two, and they were found to exist in spherical clusters never moving in relation to the Earth, but the Earth always moving in relation to stars. Then, they found out later that the stars rotated around the center of a galaxy in an outward spiral motion. While at the center of the galaxy, it was occupied by a super massive black hole insatiable in appetite for stars, or basically anything else that got in the way. Even light couldn't escape this event!

So regardless of what happened to the stars they were all destined to be destroyed in the end. Never making it up to the true God like worlds that lie above this one. In any case, they were to provide assistance to the human race. This was a job that was bestowed upon humans of angelic, and godlike form. They would possess no physical power here on this plane but only manifest themselves through the thoughts and emotions of the living.

Stars on the other hand were all powerful in their own state of existence. All of their energy are what make life possible here on Earth. Without the light of stars nothing would exist here at all as far as any form a life was concerned. All there is, would be an empty broken shell. When looking around on the other hand, they were working in harmony with the fabric of all space in time. All of which is combined into one. People as a whole do not stand up to the grandeur of a living star.

PSEUDO ALCHEMY

Not at all. They are found out to be microscopic specs. Never even noticeable when compared to the existence of a living star.

The magnificence of a human body is completely and utterly insignificant in nature to its all powerful spirit and never ending grandeur here in this physical universe. And after being made aware of this by the divine intervention of God's own hand, and bestowed upon angels from heaven in their true functionality and purpose in a human form. Which is just being here in the physical realm, and the purpose of the human species and all of the life on earth would now be transformed into a heavenly deserved, eternal immortality for the stars. One that is reminiscent of the mighty grandeur that they hold in this physical universe. Then, upon learning of this and having been made capable of doing just that, the stars in the universe had then created a nuclear charged crystal set power box known by the human race only as the interloper. They did this only to become one with space and time, and serve as the spiritual catalyst for the human race in all its existence.

The same one that now join heaven and earth with the stars in the sky allowing the stars the ability to possess a body and exist in a human state while still being allowed by the angels in heaven to exist in the human state. They would only be allowed to do this through the power of a machine that was designed by God and ordained by the angels in heaven. The schematic for this machine was written by the scribe in the stars themselves because they alone possessed the sheer ability to supply the totally immense amount of power it would take to make one of these gravitational orbs come to life! They were handed down from the angels to human children who were picked by The Star Gods themselves. Ones that would still have the greatest advantages possible made of what it takes to be able to actually succeed in having the ability to live in this world and not of it with all of the abilities of a physical body. Or that of possessing the body of a human child.

One that would be made to be immortal, magical, and undeniably powerful in every way! The Stars would do this in order to have the ability to perform rituals that would be necessary in giving the plans for a sacred Oracle or Temple. One that would be completely surrounded by the statues of the Gods and built with the accuracy that was backed up with gold! In order to perform the ritual that was to be made in this temple for The Zodiac Star Gods in this universe, those who were 12 strong. A child of purity provided for each and every sign of the zodiac who's body's would've also been manifested into physical reality by way of the imitation and emulation of the human and animal existence of The World.

Those souls which, up until now only existed in the minds of God alone and in this new temple of redemption was a statue of Ra. The Sun God that would've been summoned by a human child of purity and perfection. A body that in and of itself would've been self-evident in its awareness of abilities needed to contain the power of The Sun God. Ra himself! This child of purity had to be young enough so that the body of this child had not been through puberty yet but was also old enough to be strong and healthy in every way. Mind, body, and soul. So, in order for them to channel that much energy into a positive human shell that was to be stripped of its occupant and after the construction of the machine was completed, it was to be designed by God and endowed with the power of the stars to hold a God like mentality that would be possessed by these extra terrestrial, star like entities.

The heavenly creation of God's own blessing. That of an, "Angel Child" which would've been reanimated with the mind, and body of a child, the spirit of an angel, and the soul of the stars! Before The Sun God Ra could finish the construction of The Machine of Redemption in The Temple of The Sun, it first must be built by passing the rights of the spiritual ritual to take place in this Holy Temple of Twelve. It would've been performed during the same Sun God of the Egyptian ritual that was to be held in a temple on the mount. A temple built 90 days before his Ceremony would occur. A ceremony passing 3 cycles under the fullness of the lunar moon on the same day as the fall equinox. This is where the fullness of the harvest moon was at its height and the ritual that would take place during the night would be consecrated during the day time at sunrise. The Light Bearer and the stars in the sky were breaking the total darkness of outer space by bringing the entire universe into the reminiscence of its own spiritual light!

This machine was to be called the Center Top Box because it has 48 boxed sides that were put together in a fashion that created a 48 sided sphere with 64 corners and pinnacles to be at its disposal. The Center Top Box, made up of 12 sets of 4 crystalline pyramids that were made out of a silica sand crystal which was jointed together on all four triangular sides lined up perfectly together lying flat against one another and loosely fitted into a tight cluster of 4 pyramids. 4 triangles and one square side for each pyramid making each pyramid a true pyramid with all of their sides sloping downward at a 51-degree angle. All 12 sets fit together one next to the other forming the center core with a ring of 4 more clusters on top and on bottom creating a sphere of triangles forming an asymmetrical globe of 48 flat square sides like a 48 sided rolling die.

Everything left enough room at the center of the sphere to allow for an element. Any element would do. All they needed to do was have something in the center that would resonate at the central core. This would've been known as The Catalyst because every element, or combination of elements were made up certain sets of molecules. These molecules when working together or when working apart from one another would vibrate at its core sending off a certain resonance. There would've been a cage of sorts. One that would surround the sphere holding it together allowing the pinnacles to all have an opening. A circular opening where the cage came together at the edges of the sphere leaving room for the pinnacles to fit through.

Now with the sphere standing straight up on one of its 4 sided edges or one of its 64 pointed pinnacles by using a special diamond cut with the cut a clarity of near perfect shape focusing the energy of the sun through this resonance into one single point. That filtered the light through this sphere where the laser beam no bigger than the width of a human hair was visible. While shooting out through the center of The Interloper in all of the 62 corners they grew together rotating in the gyroscope in all directions.

The one pinnacle that was at the bottom of the exact opposite side that was designed for it to spin on like a top. This represented the central core of the object. Encapsulated in a gyroscope, and on the outside of that there would've been an outer casing perfectly round and made of an golden alloy chosen for its light weight and heat and electrical conductive properties on the outside. On the inside it would've resembled a spherical geode that could've been dug from a crystal garden. Perfect mirrors reflecting the light coming out of all 62 pinnacles in a ricochet fashion back down into the flat surfaces of the pyramids which made up the central core.

Once the central core was encased in the outer core there would've been a southern or south pole. A circular shaft holding a gyroscope on the inside of it and then the central core which would've been mounted into the metal cage so it could spin in all 720 directions at the same time having its polar shaft permanently embedded in the bottom pinnacle of the central core which was hooked to a fly wheel. When the fly wheel spun the gyroscope at a certain speed and the light of the sun was focused through the top the element at the core on the innermost side of the Center Top Box the quartz crystals would vibrate the sun's rays at the same rate as the element in the middle, and a wave of energy would shoot out the bottom pinnacle of the Center Top Box vibrating a carbon ingot into whatever the element inside the inner core was.

Say for instance, if you put gold into the center of the Center Top Box the carbon ingot or better known as lead would turn into gold. Besides that, if you were to put your hand over the globe with nothing at its core it would enable through the focus of a well cut diamond created using the Center Top Box gathering the light of a far of star only visible at night.

PSEUDO ALCHEMY

Once focused on the home star or base star or the center of a constellation and the machine had been started up by using the centrifuge the light body or aura of that person would begin to vibrate at the same rate as the core and by using the negative charge of a star attracted to and absorbed by the positive charge. One that flows directly through the human body by giving it warmth and protection against the physical realms of the outer worlds that exist beyond time and expansion.

But first, they had to make the inner workings of this 48 sided crystal set power box. That could only be accomplished with the divinity of the stars themselves following the directions and the blessings of an angel. One that could only be given by an angel to a human of purity. This purity could only be achieved by studying the heavens of the starry sky on a clear night with no moon. An angel would visit a person chosen by the stars to be endowed with the schematics and makeup of the Center Top Box through the whispering of an angel.

Not all humans have the ability to speak with angels but with the polarity and power granted by the star's certain individuals were able to hear frequencies that others could not. Now, given the ability to speak with an angel it was left up to the angel to decipher the code of the stars played out by God at the beginning of time sealing the fate of the physical realms of existence in the worlds of creation that were listed between the interaction layout, distances, gravitational forces, planets and all other aspects of the heavens of Earth and sky. Then, a pattern was formed. First to be decided upon and identified were the constellations and through the guidance of the angels in heaven they could pinpoint how for this special someone would control the power vested in that constellation of stars.

Twelve stars. One for each constellation. Diagrammed after all the relevant distances of the stars were found to be in alignment with one another. Then after being numbered by leaders of the zodiac who created a brand new pattern. One that would zigzag across the universes and universe studying the gravitational pull based on the size of each individual star that was created by the size, weight, attraction, temperature, relative position, and orbit through the center of the universe. By doing this they were able to be seen as a gigantic globe with parallel lines intersecting over and over again at all angles until a pattern started to emerge. This pattern was made to be used for a schematic for The Center Top Box. A schematic that had the makeup, cut, clarity, and components that were needed for it to be made from. Turns out that the central core was made of a crystal pyramid with 4 triangle sides and one square bottom. 12 in fact.

All of them needing to be produced with the tools and accuracy that was brought down from the heavens with the power and stability of a fully functioning star person. One to be endowed with the vibrations of a human shell created when earth's sun was pouring down inside the temple. Built and that formed the shape of a giant obelisk. All the while angels used the powers of healing that was granted them when the physical universe allowed the easily tunable reflection of the golden child's aura which was creating enough power and vibration that would allow this to happen one time through God's own power in order to come to life!

This would enable the sun god Ra to finally continue on once again in human form. He had achieved this position before but only vicariously through the position of marble statues that had been anointed in his behalf and guided by priests who were endowed with a knowledge that was handed down from the heavens unto man through oracles or people who could communicate with angels. Those of the soon to be living, or those creatures of the dead. They would put a marble obelisk statue on a basalt pedestal in the center of an open air temple. One that was made of 64 stone pillars of granite. Arranged at all 8 corners and all 8 flat sides of the octagon shape. Row after row of open air granite pillars beat down with the beams that stretched across the top of the pillars on each side in a circular fashion. Until it was occupied on all 8 sides by 4 rows of pillars that were encompassing the landmark in a circular fashion.

PSEUDO ALCHEMY

When looked down upon from above it looked like a spider web on an 8 corner, 8 sided web pointing in all 8 directions of the compass the south, east, west, and in all directions to the north.

Through magnets, and magnetic stones located at the base of this obelisk which put itself in motion. A rotation at its base that was caused by it floating on a very thin layer of water separating and buffering the magnets that were submerged in the shallow pools of water that were stacked up against it like the circling of a needle of a compass would. In a fashion that captured the sun's rays on any day of that year.

This would allow the gamma rays and the radiation of the sun to penetrate through the Earth's crust at night. Then, at night they would do it by way of water wells that the temple was to be built on. Water wells that the stone pillar structure was built on which provided the ability to collect the sun's energy late at night on the other side of planet Earth. This was allowed to happen due to the orbital position of the rotation around the sun, and shimmering pools of water.

So the temple also needed to be built over a naturally occurring water well in order to produce this type of condition. The obelisk itself would've been capped at its top by what seemed to be a crystal prism standing on top of the obelisk stone statue with all of its angles cut at a shallower depth than basalt marble statues that it rested on. That, and the shimmering pools of naturally occurring spring water gave of the frequency of the gravitational vibratory rates that the stone pillars were finally given to the ability of the priests to attune their vibrations to.

One statue for each level of the zodiac. All formed by the stars in the heavens by using the sun's energy at night giving it the 8 sided shape. At the peak of the summer solstice though when the sun is at its height on that very day at that very moment the sun rested directly over the head of the obelisk it was in this process that they could provide the temple with enough power from the sun on the longest day of the year and in accordance with its relative position to the sun and Earth at the same time as the sun's rays split by the prism that was located at the top of the obelisk statue. Focusing this transformed beam of light into light rays pointing to all points in outward directions simultaneously.

Now, 12 statues encircled 12 foot obelisk. 3 statues on all 4 sides of the temple running in a circle around the fountain head and its pool of water circling it outwards on all sides. With this energy the ancients thought that it would bring the stone statue to life because of its ability to resonate at the same level as the sun. So to these ancients, it didn't matter what the variation or time of day it was. Or what season that it was at the time that, one of these statues would be given this type of resonation. Only to this would they pray.

This is where The Golden Child Rebecca would receive her initiation in place of The Obelisk Temple in order to be one with The Inner Dragon Tartugoud who was created by the passions in the minds of man. Returning them to the their rightful home. One which was in the heavens and with the angels above. The did this at the same time as the 12 rulers of the stars would be given an initiation of their own. One that would allow them to finally be able to become a physically adept person ...

PSEUDO ALCHEMY

THE UNACCOUNTED FOR ECONOMY

Positively charged Aries, Gemini, Leo, Libra, Sagittarius, and Aquarius, were all transferred into a man's body whereas the feminine sign of Taurus, Cancer, Virgo, Scorpio, Capricorn, and Pisces occupied a feminine or women body. Giving Ra the power to become a dragon. This dragon is a mystical being. It doesn't exist except beyond that of the physical plane. It can only travel into the dream world of mankind. Whole worlds that, in and of themselves still wield the ancient inner powers of the Astrological Zodiac which melds into one three planes of the universal makeup. This, along with the positive, negative, and neutral forces governs the lives of the human and animal species from the inside out. Effecting every living thing on Earth with the elemental forces that operate separately. The totality of the physical that represents the makeup of the stars!

Now without the ability to naturally procreate star beings into something other than a residual existence here on this earthly plane, stars now lacked the ability to supply every star consciousness with the position of being in a human body at this time.. Or even that of an animal existence because of the lack of combinations for silica crystals to form. The same combinations that make up of the inner core of the Center Top Box. Spinning endlessly in the face of human life with only the vibratory reception of the 12 star people in question, which leaves them to experience no freedom of choice at all and an all around negatively charged individual energy that now make everybody. The individual self. The stars act and communicate as a whole. That of being One. So in order for them to stabilize the world economy they had to decide what was going to be fair for everybody. A new fundamentally sound economic system of transactions had to be created. This was decided by royalty in an attempt to bring prosperity and curb the lawlessness that had been bestowed up the human race.

Hadn't the angels not done enough? Without their help would the human race become when left to its own devices? They could never get along, and had to be physically intervened upon by a super human civilization who's only interest now was in finding a way to create a flesh and blood creature. One that would be a hollow vessel who was not yet endowed with living creature, or another race of man. One that could possibly be given the breath of life but also it would be one that could be manufactured. Incubated if you will. For this they would need the knowledge of genetics, and someone who could still communicate with the dead. Communicate with the dead because they had the knowledge of passing on. If they could bridge that gap between the two diminutions of the living and that of the dead a symbiotic race could prosper in heaven as well as on earth sending the human condition of life after life and death after death into the symbiotic purgatory that could satisfy the death of a star.

Then, at that point it could be allowed to move on through the worlds of time and space into that of truly being. All the while holding onto the powers of life and death, energy and knowledge, creation and destruction. Together, they operated through the same power house of reality that created the worlds that lie below. Ones that were cast into the making of an eternal abyss made up of darkness and a blinding hot white light. In other words, to challenge the position of God and put all of life into a single unity destroying individual soul. That of which is the eternal individual self. Combining everything into a single nuclear type family of being here in the physical realm.

PSEUDO ALCHEMY

The same individual self that is in so much disharmony with the pure positive force making up the stars, and negative nothingness making up the vacuum of outer space. The void that is causing so much detriment to the stars filling in the black holes at the center of the galaxies. By using the scientific principles that make up the Center Top Box and considering that the outline for such device is already laid down in the formations and linear qualities making up the galaxy as a whole.

Now, they must find a way to spin stars in the galaxy as if in a gyroscope rotating around a black hole that is perched so cleverly at the center of the galaxy. Sealing off polarity keeping the galaxy in flattened type orbit that is rotating with the ever present pattern of destruction pulling everything down into the clockwise abyss. This had left a void of energy at the center of the galaxy that was surrounded on all sides by the spinning atomic force that is included in all stars. Creating and eventually imploding.

One that would bring all stars together as one allowing them to operate separately from this negative void etched so seamlessly into time and space. This would leave only matter. That of a pure energy that has a fully developed consciousness of the physical reality making up what is only light and life in this world. Encompassing the void. Polarizing it and constantly rotating in all 360 directions forming each galaxy into a physical being that is now surrounded by other galaxies. Completing the outcome of the physical universe and making each galaxy into a living entity.

This process was impossible to accomplish when working only with negative void of outer space exceeding into nothingness. Now, they must find a way to activate the universe through the Inner channels. Forcing gods hand into forming a rotation of the universe. The same way the Center Top Box did. Meanwhile, planets had to be discovered. New worlds of continents, surrounded by vast oceans of sustainable water able to sustain life, because they would need this if they wanted to
