What would you think would be the purpose of me accusing the science establishment of being corrupt and hiding their corruption behind secrecy and lies. Why would I accuse those in science of mind manipulation, mind control and brutal brainwashing while science is going so nicely?

It is getting the truth out for once after the entire world is fed lies from all sides.

Where you read facts and after you completed the book and investigated all the information and you feel I have not made my case according to you, then you have 3 e-mail addresses by which to contact me. However, if I make my evidence a presentable and believable case and prove corruption in the ranks of science, then I ask you take on the fight with me by e-mailing the book to any and where you can then as many physics teachers and other physicist in teaching office at Universities and Colleges or anywhere and everywhere else and let them have the truth.

Let those feeling high and mighty and learned come down to a human level and see what they are preaching and that their game is up... after 3 centuries of cheating the human race, they have finally been caught out.

I am going to introduce true science and it is not witch craft as Newtonian science wishes to portray science.

The factor called Mass does not magically form gravity by the fairy godmother called the Graviton swiping her wand. Reading this you will for the first time ever meet with true science as reason introduce science. Science is much more complicated than that!

A Science Conspiracy Network

Read About The Biggest Conspiracy ever enlisted, it's more than just the next conspiracy because it is A Science Conspiracy Network

This Network Engulfs the Entire Civil Human Race in Every Aspect.

THIS IS THE WEBSITE THAT WHISTLE BLOWS ON A SCIENCE HAVING A CONSPIRACY NETWORK.

This conspiracy is so widely active that every person on earth participates, most probably without knowing, some reluctant and others well knowingly pursuing the goals of the conspiracy with all the vigour they could muster.

Those commanding the conspiracy are the very ones we trust blindly with our lives, our future and moreover with our wisdom and yet they are the ones betraying us openly.

Those I refer to betray us in every way possible by teaching us lies that never could be true and all the while we believe them with all our hearts and with our entire future...

They take money from parents with the sole aim to brainwash the students that are entrusted to their care.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN,

I am P.S.J Schutte, nicknamed Peet. Being a white South African my mother tongue is Afrikaans and my second language is English. My language standard used might not quite meet your Shakespearian expectations and some spelling errors might have slipped through cracks but it is not the art of language I try to promote but it is the art that science perfected by never disclosing information they prefer not to and never to divulging the entire overall picture about what it is that science know and don't know. It is the information about the unbelievable oversight of Newtonian mistakes I disclose that proves how they keep the oversight of Newtonian mistakes silent and why they don't divulge that which they keep silent about. It is about them never committing to the entire story by giving an all-round presentation of everything anyone would require to know to be in a position to evaluate.

It is not what science declares that is important but it is always what scientists don't declare that holds prominence and more so the reason why science keeps a silence about the information they do not disclose. It is never about what they say but it is why they don't say other things they keep quiet about. You will read how they never disclose the entire truth because science is about promoting one-sided and selectively opinionated information forming fraud no less. I have been per suiting a new cosmic theory that I partly present in a six part theses, of which the investigating research began in 1977. In 1999 I compiled my theory and searched for a publisher.

First I located what was wrong in physics then formed a correct approach. I compiled my presentation of it in a theses that I call The Absolute Relevancy of Singularity and then six separate thesis parts forming the theses published through LULU.com which I saw as the only manner whereby I could generate funding by which I would be able to have the twenty seven books I already wrote linguistically edited and then to have the books published on a Print-On-Demand basis.

I compiled a new cosmic theory by which I eliminated all the incorrectness that Newton has burdened science with but with this being my opinion I did not find a garage full of academics supporters waiting to applaud me and to uphold my views on the matter. Yet still I was not going to be ambushed by their relentless stonewalling my efforts and blocking my efforts in introducing both the incorrectness and the new cosmic theorem I concluded. Their mannerism in blocking and frustrating my opinion when showing the mistakes in science convinced me about a Conspiracy in Science in Progress and this spurred me on to tell the entire world about their brainwashing students minds. By the manner they selectively withhold information when teaching science, amounts to deliberate brainwashing of students in physics by "normal" education practises.

Trying to convey my message kept me busy for the past going on to twelve years on full time basis whereby I was trying to introduce my findings to many academics without finding much joy from my efforts. This past eleven years plus saw me go without any income as I tried to get my theorem recognised as well as get my warning noted.

Going without a steady income left me almost destitute and in order to find a manner to get my theory across to the attention of influential readers, I decided to publish a theses of six books electronically as to try and get around the stranglehold of Newtonian bias controlling science at present worldwide. I decided to publish electronically which those in power do not control. However to get people to believe me is to change science that everyone believes as culture.

With my first language not English and the books not linguistically checked by an expert there are bound to be language errors that readers will notice. In the past I tried to check my work myself but after checking say one hundred and fifty pages for language corrections, then after days of toiling instead of having corrected work I ended having four hundred pages of newly written information which is still not linguistically corrected but holds a lot more information.

The language and spelling errors compiled instead of reduced. This is because my priorities lie elsewhere. I aim to spend money on correcting the work as far as language goes, as I receive money in the selling of my theses and in the hope that I will receive money. I will have all my work including the one you are reading edited professionally and corrected as I find money to do so...But first I have to get the public aware of the problem to get the academics to appreciate the problem. In everyone's mind science is more perfect than religion is. In the event of any readers who may have questions concerning more facts as it is presented in this book, please feel free to contact me, PEET SCHUTTE. All information divulged came about through independent self-study during the past thirty-two years or so. I have to warn the readers that the topics are showing a very new approach with no quick answers abstaining from proof or holding just a few lines and the information is new in nature but not hard to grasp.

Should anyone desire to contact me about raising an opinion, or sharing your opinion about my views on science then feel free to do so by using <mailto:info@questionablescience.net> or the e-mail address <mailto:info@singularityrelavancy.com> but please do so when coming to the end of this book at least and then see if you understand the entire concept that I introduced. In most cases all your questions are answered further down the line and I am not fond of repeating what is already said in the book. The book forms a line in explaining and the concepts are best understood if the reader follows the designated line. You are going to encounter mathematics and if you don't like reading it, than skip it because it is not important. It is there to shut up those that think they are clever and know less about mathematics than a monkey knows of political philosophy. I will show you how much Newton knew about relevancies applying in mathematics.

This book started off as a website to inform about a science conspiracy but although reduced still it grew into a book that serves much more information than what I first intended to supply. You will see many new aspects about gravity please make sure you understand what you read. It grew into a comprehensive study on cosmology. At times you may observe while reading this book that it seems as if my frustration will ring through like the chiming of the Big Ben Bell. For that there is a reason. At times my frustration and anger will boil over drowning my politeness and that is true, which I admit. For twelve years I have had the answer that would correct the philosophy that has a stranglehold on cosmological science.

I discovered the building blocks of nature where my discovery puts all other cosmic aspects of science into science fiction. Those who force-feed non-existing dogma do so to brainwash students to hide the incompetence of "modern science" so they can rule supreme while ignoring the truth that they deliberately hide by concocting a conspiracy. To keep everyone unguarded they practise a conspiracy by which they perform an accepted practise of thought control on students to further the false dogma presently in place. I try to blow the whistle on such a practise but accepting my resolution makes every thesis ever written science fiction. Therefore no one in science dare to read my work leave alone appreciates the revolutionary nature thereof. Whatever now is deemed to be accepted science would then become what is the past tense in science because the flaws that those in power of science principles kept coated for centuries on end as untouchable truth will then be rust that breaks the surface to show the holes!

They try to silence me but surely somehow somewhere I have to break through with my message! I bring you a true form of science as never seen before in all of history and I do that when I dispose of the conspiracy that hides all the incorrectness and the failures that haunts science today. Science is accepted as the most righteous information available to man and that is a scam.

This introduction is as much about proving what energy is as it is about knowing the difference to the state in which alive person is and in which a dead person is. Newton considered all forms of energy to be the same, and oh boy, was he mistaken. It is not surprising he formulated gravity the way he did. There is a worldwide fashion amongst the very well educated that in order to be regarded by those with the know how as being a supremely informed person, one must at least be an atheist. The key to science is apparently to be completely atheistic.

Atheists do not believe in the life after death, a Creator or a Force that does not exist outside the technological criteria of mathematical science.

Everything that does exist only exists because it exists in the perceptibility of science. If science can explain it then it is a reality and if science can't explain it then it is a fable. However is what science can explain a reality...we shall get to that point shortly. Science puts all natural factors in forces and the four forces by its magical nature are like witchcraft and soothsaying, it can never be explained. Any force that might lie outside this norm is quite unthinkable and that thought could never present itself as to be present in the material Universe.

The ironic of this fact is that those well-educated scientists have only one source of information and that is light waves and even that they don't recognise as their main source of information. They look at the sky and say I have seen and never question what they have seen. But because they have never seen God and because science can't prove God, therefore science must disregard God and then God fail to exist.

It never dawn on them that the shortfall of proving God must be in their shortsightedness and in the shortcoming of their science, no they put science forward as the only infallible source of knowledge there is in Creation. If you believe that then get your anti depressants next to you because your world is going to come tumbling down as it never did before. Still they permit themselves to be atheists in their blind state of ignorance. I do not condemn them, because they apparently know more than I will ever know. For instance they know that mass produces gravity by the magic of the intervention of the graviton...and where you might find such a graviton I don't know and I am pleased to say they also don't know but since they know the magic of the graviton and I don't know the magic of the graviton they "understand" Newton and I fail to "understand" Newton.

However, because I am not that knowledgeable, as to "understand" Newton I must feel my way through the tunnel of ignorant darkness like a blind person in order to get a grip on reality which to my mind must form science. However, in doing that, I stumbled across a heap of questions that has no answers, and are answered by those that never question Newton because they "understand" Newton and even then when they never find answers about Newton they are thought of as those who carry the flame of knowledge. That forced me to form my own theories, think and come up with sensible conclusions, which answers all those questions their light of knowledge could not answer.

Although I admit that I don't "understand" Newton or the magical powers of fairies such as the graviton apparently is still I declare to be of average intelligence and like millions of others on earth, all these millions are believers in a Supreme being that created His Creation of which I am only a very small part, but like me, there are billions of others that are confronted by the same questions which these super intellectuals that "understand" Newton are seemingly incapable or unwilling to answer. Then I realized the super intellectuals only have one source that lead them and that is measured light.

Some of these scientific facts that modern science uses date back to the time when man became aware of a lifestyle that just started to include a civilized order. According to some discoveries by archaeologists, it seems that mankind had its survival mostly due to the way it accomplished knowledge about primitive science, this enabled man to survive in a total hostile environment. Wind was a force, rain was a force, and fire was a force and so on. The number of forces was endless but not any more and not in our modern society. The brilliance of Newtonian science is that they cut all those magic and magical forces down to the four in use today. Is that not brilliant and so consumer friendly?

Man's first awareness about forces that he could not control, was explained as forces unleashed by pagan gods. In that is seated mankind's belief and mankind's desire to be in total control of these godly forces. This desire therefore became one of the biggest incentives that drove mankind to a civil obedience and law-abiding standard of living. Today it is still the function of science. We have to be in control of global warming and we have to be in control of the ozone layer and we have to be in control of Mars and we have to tell the Universe where it hides mass so that the Universe will contract as we say it must and we... still have to be in control of the fear science brings because Newtonian science diverted the fears of the unknown while the unknown is still in our midst.

We can even today go as far as to except that the role that intelligence played in the development of our species was far bigger than the role was of the more brutally and physical force. In the animal world, the strongest in species would ultimately be the leader of the pack. With his brutal power and brute force no one in the pack would dare to challenge the leaderships hierarchy and in that challenge the offspring of leader the leader himself. If one challenger should dare to do so, the challenger would ultimately but not necessarily pay with his life. It is a well known fact that male baboons not only kill the previous leader, but he will wipe out all the siblings, no matter how much the female baboons might protest against it.

This is even more so in species that has much closer links with mankind. The chimpanzee male just simply murders all possible male challengers until the day he himself is also murdered by his successor. The orang-utan male is another example of a male that would not even tolerate any male in a smelling distance. This confrontation will definitely lead to the death of the weaker one of the two.

In the development of mankind intelligence played a much bigger role than did brute strength and this still prevails to this day. There may be a distinct possibility that fear for the unknown was the only reason mankind's development lead us to a higher norm in development than our close relatives. In case of other species the generational development benefits the physical strongest and do not favour the more intelligent of the species. These animals are still much stronger than man is, although man tamed all animals, at one point or another. Therefore, all animals submit to man and man's intellect no doubt.

In this, one must define the difference between intelligence and the idea, which I refer to as extelligence.

In the understanding of the meaning of intelligence brings to mind how the animal socializes with its own species to guarantee the social survival of the species. That means that all animals have intelligence. Dogs has been with man as long as we can trace back human development, so in doing that he forced the dog into acknowledging mans intelligence. However, the dog still communicates with his own species in the way its intelligence dictates. The dog smells the arse of another dog but never dare to come and smell the arse of a new visitor that is a person arriving in their midst. He sees man as the leader of the pack, rather than a completely different species. When it communicates with man, it will wag its tail or show submission by lying on its back.

Yet, it accepts man's way of communication by listening to voice commands but still communicate in the dog's manners. The dogs intelligence never allowed him to try and communicate with man by using mankind's standards, although his intelligence placed him in a certain advantage point to share to some extend mankind's intelligence. However, the only reason it did so, was too further the dog's own need to survive in the pack with man then becoming leader of the pack.

As a farmer, I often watch the manner in which cows interact. The heard of cows will graze all night with their calves beside them. At one predestined time during the morning, the mothers leave in a group to have a drink of water. I admit there is nothing strange about that. The strange part is in the procedure, when taking into account that we regard these animals to be thoughtless beasts. When this happens one dry cow or a specific reselected heifer that morning gathers the entire number of suckling calves, takes them to a safe, and secured area, far from the crocodile infested river where the calves would play and enjoy one another's company.

I refer to this in Afrikaans as the "kindertuin" which translates as the kindergarten. After the water drinking, the mother's would gather in a shady spot, and ruminate for about two hours or so. Then at a certain time lapse (always about the same) they would get up, and stroll in the direction of the kindergarten. Only when they come to a certain point will the calves leave the seclusion, and run to meet their mothers to feast in the generous supply of milk.

The biggest amazing part is that the kindergarten hostess is never the same cow. Everyday another dry cow takes on the responsibility of playing stepmother to the calves. Not once is there an incident of one of the calves being disobedient or not under standing about the procedure what is expected. They always seem to know which cow to follow, and are never fearful of leaving their mothers. They never are obstinate and wonder off in search of their mothers or run to their mothers before someone gives the signal, whatever the signal may be. If cattle are that mindless then who decides who's turn it will be to play stepmother, who and how are the calves informed about who to follow, and why are they acting that responsible and disciplined. After all, they are only young mindless beasts.

I concluded that in our self-righteousness we under estimate our fellow living species. In the case of my kids no sooner did I teach them to talk when they started talking back in an attempt to follow their own minds. That is extelligence. However, in all fairness to my own species I have to admit, mankind disposes of intelligence as well as extelligence. Extelligence is the acquired knowledge to deal with matters not relating to its survival. A part of this development was due to the need of extelligence to eat. Mankind's progress in becoming a forceful species lagged behind because of his awareness to the fact that he could manipulate certain forces in nature to his advantage.

A part of this manipulating process was accomplishing the skill to control and use fire. However, man also noticed that fire came from the heavens and clouds. These clouds formed part of the sky where the sun, moon and other stars are located. This extelligence brought us forces and Newtonian science now got the number down to four but can create some when the need arrives. When a cow looks at the night sky the cow does not point to the beautiful stars and start to tell the calve a story while humans do this and in doing that the human creates extelligence, the awareness of bigger facts and a more complex Universe than merely grazing away at the grass.

Man was the only species that could find a manner in which to interpret the view we have of the night sky. I call that extelligence. It is placing something we don't need into our need and find a manner to give what we don't need to survive a purpose by which we can survive. With this argument, astronomy had to play a huge role in the development of mans culture, especially the religious aspect. His health, happiness, belief, future and wealth all derived from the gods that was found in the stars. This fascination and even religious fears was derived from the stars that even today is still apart of the science of cosmology. That is why even today, people are still motivated by the stars. Ironically enough, the other big motivation lies in man's lust for power and his war games to commit murder, to demolish other's property, and to dominate other members of its species to the point beyond that of slavery.

The role of slave owners and slave drivers today is in the hands of the Mammonites. They use John and Jane Dow and all mankind that belongs to social grouping lower than they do. Mammonites are those that control every facet of the man on the street's life, should it be by job supply, political law enforcement, food and house supply, by dictating to the politicians in what manner and which laws should be applied and enforced. Mammonists on the other hand is the smaller and lesser counterpart that would pass his hungry brother and not help him in his need, although the Mammonist has more money than he or she could ever need, but they share in the greed of the Mammonites.

To them, their love for money is far greater than their love for their fellow brothers and sisters. This can be found in any social structure, be it capitalists, socialists, communists or kingdoms. The cream of the social structure would bleed those below them dry without mercy and always to the cream's advantage.

Man was always aware of forces bigger than man and being stronger than man. That gave man extelligence. The fear that man experienced about forces, which was, according to him, inexplicable and therefore stronger than him, was considered by him to be of a godly nature and therefore only the wise amongst the wise could explain and philosophise about the nature of these forces. Common man never questioned the correctness of these layouts. However, man still prevailed in explaining to the best of his ability, the logic about his viewpoints and in so doing to guide the incredible forces that torched his fear. Today in retrospect, we consider these arguments laughable. Think how ridiculous it seems to regard the sun as a god on a chariot of fire that patrols the sky on a daily basis. Today it seems ridiculous to regard the earth as being flat, or to see a face of a goddess on the surface of the moon.

In a hundred or two hundred years from now, it would be our generation's turn to be considered short sighted and backwards because we accepted these ridiculous arguments. Thus, no matter how dynamic our visions of the cosmos seem to be, we shall still be regarded as non-intellectual and stupid by generations to come. However this book introduces the next age where we now can look at Newtonian science and start to giggle because you are going to see just how laughable that lot are.

In writing this book, I too attempt to deliver a contribution to clarify a certain line of thought that is unclear and to give an explanatory value to it. You, the reader, will evaluate the acceptability of my reasoning and you will remain the only evaluator that will approve or reject my work because those in high office refuse to even read my work since it talks Newton down and they live to uphold Newton.

My viewpoints are not the consequence of a big literacy, but rather due to a lack thereof. Remember I am the one that is according to those Masters that "understand" Newton the one that does not "understand" Newton and me being the party in science not "understanding" Newton I drip with stupidity while they fly a mile high with sensibility and shear wisdom. Because I shall entrust you as the reader with my thoughts, I shall have to introduce myself in a brief manner. Relatively spoken I can be considered as stupid because again I have to repeat that I do not "understand" Newton. I do not try to sell myself short, but in accepting this fact, I was able to use it to my great advantage. If two thousand of the world's most intellectual brains ignore you and others that do try an effort to reply on your work but in the contact tell you that you are too stupid too understand "classical mechanics" the way Newton explain it then one must believe those with the brains are correct and me as mindless as I am in not "understanding" Newton, should quietly fade into the darkness and disappear from all records.

First, I have to qualify my statement that I am stupid. This is important so please pay attention since this applies to all holding extelligence. All people know what they know. However, they do not know what they do not know. For us mortals, the sum total of what we know, is enormously big because it contains everything that to us fills our Universe. That comprises the total amount of our total human existence and our accumulated knowledge gained over a lifetime of labour. On the other hand, we regard the part that we do not know, as so insignificant small, that it bears a value of nothing. It is so small that what we don't know is what we truly don't know and what we don't know is beyond what we know it is so small we don't know what we don't know. Because we do not know how much we do not know, we cannot evaluate the sum total of that.

That puts what we don't know in the class of nothing and therefore what we know is everything we know and what we don't know is nothing to what we know the ratio is eternally big to nothing. People always concentrate on the part that they know and therefore realize how intelligent they are. In this lies the accumulation of their absolute arrogance. With this arrogance the part that they do not know, becomes even more insignificant because they never think of it. The normal procedure of man is that he will concentrate on the part that is of value, disregarding the worthless part that is of no value.

In my case, I had to concentrate on the part that I did not know, because of the lack of anyone trying to understand what it is that I understand no one can see what I know and judge that. By missing what I know they can't see what I know and therefore they do not know how much I know. This brought about that I always had to regard the part that I know as being insignificant small to live up to other persons with which I share a Universe. What I know I discovered without tests and therefore I had no formal examinations in testing how much I knew about what I know and thereby evaluating my field of knowledge. In the absence of examinations about how much I know in context of what I eventually might know, I had to disregard the amount that I know and always had to consider myself as being stupid since I never got around to "understanding" Newton.

This brought about that I had to remain humble, know my place in intelligent company and fade away when others got intellectual be no one could understand what it was that I knew. This was because I was untested and stupid. This book is the consequence not of my enormous intellect, but rather as the result of my stupidity coming as a result of me not "understanding" Newton. I always had to fight my ignorance and had to seek answers to my own questions because I was too stupid to accept the official answers given by the educated. Therefore what you are about to discover came not through me being intellectual but being disregarded and seen as stupid.

Let us look at their definition of energy. Energy is, as I understand it, indestructible, which means it cannot be destroyed. Energy can only be transferred from one form to another form. Let us look at the example, which is used to teach scholars at school. We take a rock and move it from a ditch up a hill. On top of the hill, we have a lot of potential energy that was transformed from static energy by means of kinetic energy. In the transformation, other losses occurred like our body sweat from heat loss, sweat that became vapour and friction losses due to emotions rising to boiling point when physical work is done. That type of losses science apparently does not take into account as energy losses.

The losses brought about by anger, fighting and frustration brought about by incumbency that is always part of manual labour. These are also energy losses but it is never recognised by those that think they think. After all the sweat and wrestling, the rock is on the top and we have a situation with potential energy from which we can derive kinetic energy when the rock is rolled down hill. I do not agree with any of the above mentioned, and will later state my point of view. I will however declare at this point that Newton's statement of energy and work being the same thing is utter nonsense.

This is the simplest example we teach children in school. I too had to teach the children this nonsense, in the period when I too was a teacher.

Now we take the scenario of a person's life. The person is born, and after that momentous occasion he continuous on this planet for the best part of sixty or seventy years. In this, period a great deal of energy is used to walk, run, laugh, cry, think, produce and reproduce. By doing that, he would from time to time state that he feels tired or without energy. What energy is the man referring too?

I have once heard a scientist that made such a fool of him. That scientist declared that if God was energy, God could be coal, because coal is energy as well. Now I would love to invite him to a meal and see him devour a plate of coal. If coal is energy, he can make a meal of it, and then live very cheaply. What he does not seem to grasp is that there are many forms of energy, which differ totally as we distract the heat and in doing so one can tap the energy. However, coal cannot walk, run, jump and laugh. I cannot even begin to imagine one brick crying and moaning because his friend was thrown into a fire. Coal cannot have sexual intercourse producing an offspring and then caring for it afterwards. Life on the other hand does have those energy qualities. This means that there are different values and forms of energy, of which life is one. If life is no different to other forms of energy, God could be another total different concept of energy.

This is the problem that I have with these "SUPER- EDUCATED- MASTER- OF- FACT" geniuses.

To them science is private intellectual property they can do with or do without as they please and only they are credible when applying science as a thought process. They can make the most bizarre statements and could be away with it unchallenged. The world contains a wide spectrum of different occupations that people earn their livelihood from. Seen from my personal occupation, there are two types. Those that farm and produce wheat, corn, barley, nuts, sugar cane, vegetables and many other produce. These are potential energy producers. They produce food, for the other group of the human population that uses this energy product to maintain their strength to apply it to other methods of occupation. Cattle and sheep farmers produce meat that is used by others to convert into energy for their personal use

All people have one thing in common. They devour one form of energy, which is known as food. That is needed to maintain a life cycle, and the consuming of food must be done on a regular basis, to enable a human to live and reproduce for a lifespan of seventy of eighty years. The only precondition is that life would sponge on other carbon-based forms of life, whether it is plants or animals.

This person maintains his way and means of life, thus transferring energy from a form of food to a form of work. Then one day he collapses and becomes still. That person becomes unable to move. We call this state that the person is in, being dead. Even if I take a shovel of food and force it down his throat, he still would lack the ability to transform that energy to movement. But why...Simply because he does not breathe any more. And why isn't he able to breathe... because he is dead. When a person is considered dead, he lacks energy to such an extent that he cannot bring his own body to the grave. Others like me, and I have to carry him to his grave. We, that are alive, and maintain the process of translating food into life, have to carry the dead (he who is without life) to his grave.

The only difference between him and me is the energy form known as life. However, life is not the same form of energy as food, oxygen, heat and electricity. Even if I force all the food down his throat, and pump his lungs with air, while I heat his body with a blowtorch and shock him with electricity, he would still find himself unable to walk himself to his grave. That means the one form of energy is not the same as the other form of energy.

It is widely accepted that there seems to be a generator in the brain that generates electrons which enables the body to function. We know the flow of electrons is due to the process called electricity. On the other hand, do we? In a later chapter, I shall point the difference out between this flow of electricity. However, for the mean time I would stick to this accepted fact that electricity is conducted by the flow of electrons. Now, you can shock the cadaver with electricity until it hops about like a ping-pong ball, if life has gone absent, conducting a flow of electricity would not reinstate life.

You could put the cadaver on life support, with a heart machine a lung machine and all kinds of other machines. This method has nothing to do with life being precious, but fare more with the money paid by his medical aid, being precious. Once the cadaver's line of financial support dries up, his life instantaneously becomes worthless. Then the cadaver finds the problem that it seems unable to live which means it is dead. Death means the brain is unable to send electronic signals by means of amino acids to the muscles, which would enable those muscles to continue with its normal function. The cadaver finds itself without the energy called life.

At this stage, I think that I pointed out to the difference between a body filled with energy called life, and a body that lacks energy and is called death. However, the energy that I pointed out called life, is miles apart from the energy that consists of food, air, the burning of it and the destruction of it. There is a broad difference between the food process and the actual form of energy called life. Now I would like to ask those Super Intelligent Atheists and consumers of food and air to explain where the energy form that is called life has gone.

Energy cannot be destroyed, but can merely be transformed from one form to another. This is scientific gospel. Life as I pointed out, has a different value to heat. Life cannot be destroyed, that means it has to be transferred from one form to another form, and life itself is not heat, electricity, or food, because applying all those other forms of energy cannot raise the dead. The fact that energy must be transformed and cannot be destroyed is proved by science to be unquestionable. The only answer I can conclude is that science is ignoring their own findings to prove their own religion fashions. With life being an undisputable form of energy and energy cannot be destroyed, it seems very unscientific to propagate atheism as a fact. From these facts, one has to conclude that there does exist another form of life after death.
