Preface

In the beginning was the end, when I can choose peace, and rest while working. My communication has changed, and with it, my neurology.

Consider: communication is not what is said and done. It is the result of what is said and done. Therefore, if I want to heal and/or be successful in my creation, I must change the story I tell.

Meanwhile, I'll argue with myself: shall I go right or left? There is power behind making a choice, which is why deciding terrifies me! Power is so huge a subject matter that, from now on, TCO will capitalize its "P" to remind me that I'm dealing with a fiery entity that can burn. Thus, the question: is TCO "write" for me at this time?

To Reality, my Nemesis...

And to you, the yin to my yang and the yang to my yin.

It is only in the mysterious equations of Love that I can find any reason for doing what I do. As the voice of TCO, I am only here because of you.

YOU are the reason I am; you are all my reasons, and what gives me faith.

And for that, I shall be forever grateful!

TCO's Mission

The mission of The Code of Opposites is to heal our relationship to Power.

To do so, it reveals the force of a sacred language that guides us to the field in between, where to transcend our beliefs of right and wrong, and know in our blood that the divine has no religion and no elect. By becoming fluent in “God’s” language – in the paradox, feeling and sensing the all-pervading realities that beckon us now, we open to the Love that has no opposite, and experience Health in all levels of our communication.

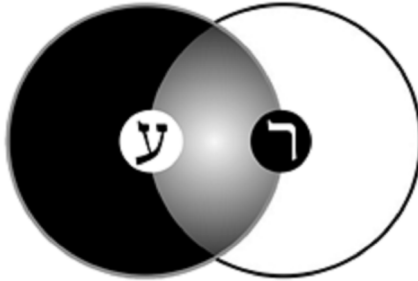

Empowering the Now is easier said than done! Sure, I have known “times” when I felt awe at the sight of a radiant sunset or at gazing into the eyes of a newborn, and lost track of my identity. Nonetheless, it is the nature of the linear continuum to bring everything to an end. Thus, the blissful moment passed, returning me to “normal” consciousness. And it makes me wonder... Is there a way to sustain the quality of presence I felt, when the inexorability of time was suspended, and only the Eternal Now existed? For that would be fluency in the paradox.

I am at the point where my conditioned existence, although punctuated by the fleeting joys of a new toy, has become wearisome. I am tired of the constant warring, a part of me wanting to be here, and the other, opposing it. This must be the principle of complementarity recognized by physicist Niels Bohr. Where will I place my attention: on the wave or the particle; on being among the haves or the have-nots?

For now, it appears that I can't grab onto both sides at once. I don't know how; it's too paradoxical for me. If I did, I would know that these two parts exist side-by-side for me to know Love. I'd surrender the fight and open to a third option (a third eye, perhaps?) by which to see the good of my suffering, and resist nothing. This is where TCO comes in. It invites me to wake up from the romantic dream and remember what I knew as a child: there is no one out there!

It does that by offering a novel interpretation of the Hebrew language of the Bible (yep!), so deep, global and ecological that it transcends any possible religious dogmatism and/or superstition. It also gives me codes by which to elucidate my own maps of meaning. At first, I am dumbfounded. Could there be some truth to the claim that the Bible may just hold the most crucial series of utterances ever expressed on Earth? Once exposed to the codes, I find myself moved to turn within, and surprisingly find the Power to transform. By triggering a full speed collision with the beauty of an interactive script, TCO gives me a way to respond and be present as I navigate the pandemic era, and beyond.

Code Conscience – RO / OR

Imagine a language so pure and so sacred that it can reconcile opposites in just two letters...

- Right: Hebrew letter Resh (ר) → R in Roman Script
- Left: Hebrew letter Ayin (א) → O in Roman Script

Here is how Hebrew inscribes the code “Conscience” in just 2 letters:

- RO: in one direction, I read Rah (רא) for “evil, bad, wicked.”
- OR: in the other direction, I read Ohr (רו) for “awake.”

The decoding: feelings are not good or bad. They’re just the communication of good or bad news. When I shoot the messenger, I’m missing precious information. Let’s say that I feel jealous (a big taboo). Jealousy simply alerts me that, right now, I think that I can’t have what I want. That is simply not true! I can attain any goal, provided I have wholesome Power. My use of Power is made wholesome when I make “THE decision,” and am deliberate in my intent to wake up. Surely, evolving consciousness is acquiring Power, and acquiring Power is evolving consciousness. As I forgive the “CAIN” in me, I begin to think “I CAN.”

Cain was so jealous of the recognition enjoyed by his brother Abel that he killed him. When I resist understanding the vanity of my evil side, I am Cain, the murderer of my potential. But when I become conscious of evil’s evolutionary purpose, I change for good. Little by little, I return to innocence as I don't take my errors so personally. It is just a matter of being willing to embrace the reality that I think "should" be different.

Note: I still find it shocking that the meanings of Cain's and Abel's names would have been obliterated. If I knew that Cain's calling is to be "possessed by jealousy," and Abel's, to be "vanity," I'd have an entirely different take on the mystery of incarnation and/or "the word made flesh." Moreover, as the first murderer and the first mortal who can't be killed, Cain has a lot to teach me about the cycle of death and rebirth to which life in the material world is bound.

About S/Hebrew

This proclamation is made to thank the Jewish people for their unflinching courage in the face of the pain they had to endure to ensure that the gift of the Holy Torah and of its Hebrew alphabet would remain uncompromised. It is also made to free Hebrew to fulfill its mandate – to trace a universal path to Peace.

Some languages, such as mathematics or music, are neutral and deemed to be comprehensive. No clan can make a claim as to their ownership. Optimally, any discipline serving a vast ecumenical endeavor belongs to no gender, no race, no nation, no tradition, no organization, but only to life itself.

While languages do evolve, Hebrew seems to be the only symbolic alphabet that never changed form. This everlastingness may suggest that there is a cosmic plan at the root of evolution that compels me to come out of nothingness. This plan was meant to show up at the perfect time. It was waiting for us, humans, to be sincere in our prayer to transition from greed into grace, and thus, heal our relationship to Power. To this end, this language renamed itself "S/Hebrew" [shee-broo], as it is when Hebrew goes global, ecological and unisex as the words and worlds of the sacred realm.

This Booklet's Contents:

- To You, My Reader – a good faith estimate of all the reasons of why to engage (or not).
- Simplifying Consciousness – a synthesis of what the work in consciousness entails, and what it will take to engage.
- In Conclusion – the basic elements positioning Golden XPR as a path to THE END,” introduced here by TCO.

Variations of this image appear throughout this booklet. Its geometry has the Latin name of Vesica Piscis for “Vessel of the Fish.” It is the Western expression of the Eastern yin yang that represents two fish – one black and one white, with the eye of each fish being the color of the other.

ONE

To You, My Reader...

THIS SECTION EXPLORES these four questions to help me decide if TCO is “write” for me:

1. Do I often feel that I am not enough?
2. Do I doubt being able to fulfill my potential?
3. Do I wish for practical solutions to recurring problems?
4. Would I like to stop the forced labor, and just be?

"Let the reader make a careful study of this work; and if his doubt be removed on even one point, let him praise his Maker and rest contented with the knowledge he has acquired. But if he derives from it no benefit whatever, he may consider the book as if it had never been written." Moses Maimonides. The Guide for the Perplexed

The information which you are about to discover may or may not be your cup of tea. Its nature is so controversial, and its writing, so different from traditional forms of writing, that it is likely to disturb your emotional body. Moreover, it dares reclaiming the vocabulary of the soul, using words as dicey as "God," "law," "sin," and "sex." And here is why this may be desirable... To break the seals keeping you from giving it all and vibrating with unconditional love, TCO must hone in on the part of you that resists the healing you most want and need. In that sense, the medium is the "massage," touching you where it hurts in order to dispel the trauma. As such, this book is more than a creative study. It is at once a revelation and a deduction. As a revelation, the awe it provokes may send you into the limbo of overwhelm, confusion, sleepiness, irritability, the desire to quit, and even the sense of being coerced. The same awe will also be enough of a surprise to give you another way to look at "it." As a deduction, it invites you to experience its hypothesis, by being at once, the scientist, the lab and the guinea pig.

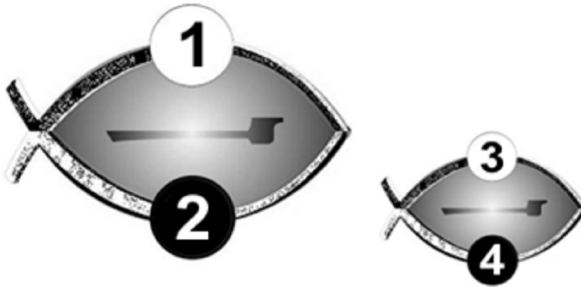

TCO's hypothesis itself speaks of awesomeness. It proposes that the Hebrew symbols are non-biological sentient animals. They work in polarity and go by pairs in order to convey a subjective experience such as surrender so that it can be objectively remembered.

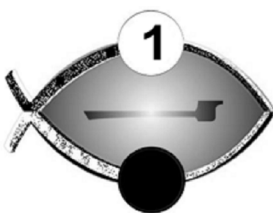

You already have all the answers. We all do. However, the fact that there's nothing to learn does not deny that teaching may be possible and, at times, necessary. This is especially true when the signs trace a path by which to have a perfect recall of the impression of just being. Being is the ultimate way to live in the world. Of all the "God" Names, none is so well put as the "ineffable name" whose four Hebrew letters simultaneously mean "I Am," "I Was," "I Will Be." The absolute being is reality. It transcends time. It is the Self, “God;” ever-present, all-pervading. Knowing the Self, “God” is known. In fact, “God” may just be no other than the I Am. This idea also appears in the letters of “I AM is the AIM” – I rest while working.

Before deciding to engage, please consider these four questions:

1. Do you often feel that you are not enough or that you can’t get any real satisfaction?
2. Do you doubt being able to fulfill your potential and manifest your heart’s desire?
3. Do you wish for practical solutions to problems that seem to be on auto-play?
4. Would you like to stop the forced labor and just be?

i. When the soul fears to be “not enough,” I am called to satiate the hunger for Love. Because this work endeavors to offer the reality of a global solution, the voice of this writing takes the perspective of an “I” in order to give “you” the space to decide when you are ready to enter a “we” space and find that there is only One story of pain. Mi cuenta es tu cuenta; “my story is your story.” Just like you, I have known loneliness, sadness, shame and anger... Just like you, I bleed when pricked!

Years followed years, books followed books, before the door of TCO opened. Meanwhile, if eating is a fitting metaphor for the acquisition of wisdom (and by extension, of wholesome Power), I am now looking at a feast. The abundance of TCO’s courses and its nutrient-density can be overwhelming! And yet, even if this luxurious buffet could satiate the hunger for Love and thus restore the sense of enough, I still have to wait to be hungry enough to deliberately sit at the TCO table, eat, chew on and savor its delights. If not, my stomach may find the delicacies a bit hard to digest...

More than ever before, I am hungry for the sacred – for something greater than the little self. While having the sense of being lost, I need directions. Might I be like a child, misbehaving so as to be given a sense of discipline? I am not conscious to be calling for the law – the Law with a big “L,” and also not conscious that finding a sure path involves going deep. This is how I shall begin by asking me to overlook the foolishness it will take to dare entering such profound waters, and to simply recognize the sincere desire to love reality, that is, to know “God.” Indeed, I must now accept that, for me to heal, the ego has to be completely nullified. Transcending destiny (the personal) is the only way to stop being a victim of my biology. This is also no less than enlightenment.

So, yes, it takes great audacity to interfere with things of which I have no conscious knowledge, but also great zeal to discover a novel interpretation that could allow me to receive the “shoulds” as my recipe for happiness, given to ensure the well-being of body and soul. Henceforth, the unimaginable will occur... The reluctant prophet in me will stop making the law a coercive device to repress what I can’t accept, and instead take great pleasure in following it. And I will call that Love, and feel it as a huge big LOVE!

For now, it seems that, even if the elders have said that “the Law speaks in the language of men,” I have closed my ears to it. Yes, the voice of my intuition speaks in sounds, images or words. It gives me my orders; moment by moment. Yes, it can be disturbing to think of myself as a soldier, especially when my ego wants to be the general! And right there, am I not singing Lucifer’s song – an angel who fell from grace after he rebelled against the rule of God? Devilish? Indeed! Archetypal? You bet!

So, why can’t we obey (a big word) when the results are so dismal? Do we think that we are above the law? Is pride and/or a lack of humility how we would ignore that “for every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction,” and repeatedly cause consequences we would rather not have to experience?

Ah... What will it take for me to die to my sins? Indeed (and in misdeed), we appear to be in dire need of a code of opposites by which to cool down Fire-Power when it leads us to hell!
