

SHORT FICTIONS YOU WOULD LIKE TO READ

Rosina & Khan

Dedicated to You,

The Valued Reader

Copyright © 2018 by Rosina S Khan. All rights reserved. No part(s) of this eBook may be used or reproduced in any form whatsoever, without written permission by the author.

<http://rosinaskhan.weebly.com>

Table of Contents

Preface	5
Shabnam Has a Story to Reveal	6
Kevin and Family	12
Just Like a Woman Should.....	18
About Simon’s Story	25
About the Author	30
Further Splendid Reading	31
Further Free Resources	34

Preface

This eBook is about four great people – two ladies and two gentlemen. How they make it a point to give priority to family is noteworthy.

Proceeding along with challenges and never losing sight of their families, they overcome big and soar to great heights.

I congratulate you on downloading this short fictions eBook because you have nothing to lose, rather enjoy four great short fictions and get values, insights and moral lines.

To Your Merry Reading,

All the best,

Rosina S Khan

Shabnam Has a Story to Reveal

ROSINA S KHAN

Shabnam Has a Story to Reveal

Shabnam was born into a wealthy family in a modern home. Her mother has been released from the hospital. And both the daughter and mother were put on bed at home until they fell into sleep again.

Her father was overexcited having a brand new daughter and went outside to bring fruits and sweets.

Soon he was back home watching TV after he checked in on with his wife and daughter. Then it was time for her father to assemble food items, a quick mix of vegetables and meat by opening the cans and stirring in a bowl and then warmed it. He also cooked rice.

He made his wife eat his prepared meals. And the baby clung to her.

Days passed by. Shabnam's father was a reputable doctor and he kept checking with his wife and daughter.

While the father kept flourishing all over in the medical center he worked, her daughter was also growing up to a teenager. Daughter and father were especially close and spent time together walking, locked hands towards the sweets shop and bought packets that were enough for family and guests.

Shabnam had to go to school and learn stuff. A tutor was provided to help her with studies.

A son was born into the family. More wishes and blessings were poured into the family.

Both son and daughter were schooling when their father got a promotion and he had therefore more incoming wealth.

The daughter's time to appear in O-level and A-level exams under University of London came and went. She really had a hard time preparing for these exams and she lost health.

After giving her A-level exams, she went to London with her family and settled down.

After to and fro from London to Dhaka and vice versa, the girl started to fall in love with a guy named as Rafat she previously studied with in another school. She even took him abroad to their mansion.

Her father had in mind another colleague's son to marry Shabnam. When Shabnam heard the news, she broke down and said she already loved someone and would like to marry him.

Her father was extremely agitated but became compliant with her daughter's choice.

The family returned to Dhaka where the great wedding ceremony took place. She invited all her close friends and they partied happily with Shabnam and her bridegroom. They were finally married after a Kazi came and both said 'Kabul'.

The party came to a pleasant halt until Shabnam reached her brand new hubby's home.

Days passed by when Shabnam and her hubby spent good times with each other. They were very memorable ones.

As time went on, Shabnam took cooking and singing lessons. Her hubby spent the savings he earned from his home office, keeping some of it in the bank.

As time further passed on, Shabnam had a daughter. When her daughter was about a year old, Rafat started having arguments about finally settling in Dhaka but Shabnam liked life in London better. After many heated arguments and squabbles, they decided to split and have a divorce.

Having done that, Shabnam was miserable for days and journeyed back to London.

Nothing could cheer her up when her young cousin brother started to play pranks on her and her daughter and the trio had fun. Soon the cousin, Yasser started to fall in love with Shabnam. Shabnam, on her side, felt for Yasser very much.

So in this way, Shabnam got a good hubby and daughter as family. It was a good ending for the family but time doesn't stop. It goes on and on when the daughter blooms and has her own dreams and achievements to achieve.

I leave you here, dear reader allowing you to visualize what kind of story Shabnam's daughter will reveal some day.

Kevin and Family

ROSINA S KHAN

Kevin and Family

Kevin, a young growing lad was enjoying home, school and riverside in a small town. He found it especially stunning to throw stones into the river and make ripples in it.

His parents were both teachers in high school in the local area. He had three elder siblings and Kevin was the youngest.

As Kevin grew up to be an adult, it was time for him to leave home and get admitted in the district's university very much in the outskirts of the town they lived in.

As he started to familiarize himself with indoor and outdoor premises of the university, he found friends in many good folks.

Four years on, he graduated and went to the main city, he found it difficult to find a job that was appropriate for his field of expertise.

Finally his toilsome hard work paid off. He found a suitable job in the electricity board office, his field of interest being Electrical and Electronics Engineering.

He worked for a good many years. His soul was good and therefore, every person who came in touch with him found a friend in him.

Now he had a residential home his office catered for and a great job to enjoy life. He found an emptiness inside him. He talked with his parents back in town and they advised him to look for a bride, a beautiful one.

So Kevin took action. He went to the same reliable matchmaker who arranged brides for his elder brothers. He trusted the matchmaker to give him his perfect soul mate.

And the matchmaker did find someone perfect for Kevin. She was 5ft 2in and elegant to look at. With makeup and good getup she looked gorgeous and Kevin immediately fell in love with her. Yes, Kevin was going to burgeon a family with this wonderful lady.

He showed her photo proudly to his family and friends and announced that she was going to marry his dream girl.

There was a great pomp and show on his wedding day. A community center was hired and blinking lights in several colors looked like a great decoration. A Kazi came in to wed the two and they both said 'kabul'.

Dates were offered to the guests and that meant the man and woman were happily married.

There were video shots, singing, dancing and music which spoke boldly that it was a good organized wedding that helped the guests to enjoy a lot.

After the ceremony was over, guests left while near and dear ones stayed behind to accompany the man and wife to their home.

They had their final celebration with a smaller group. And finally man and woman were left alone to enjoy time by themselves.

Kevin took three days' leave from his office on the occasion of his wedding. So he enjoyed good time with his newly married wife for the next two days.

They went places sightseeing. They went on long drives. They spent time near the beach and saw the sunset. Life was good but it was going to be even better. No need to worry, Kevin.

Kevin joined office with renewed spirit and vigor. Everyone greeted and congratulated him. He felt great.

His job allowed him to visit other countries for business purposes. And during these times, he missed his wife a lot but kept in touch by calling her.

Then there would be reunions again . Kevin and his wife would have good times again.

It was one of these trips Kevin was in when he called his wife and his wife had exciting news to give. She was expecting a baby.

Full of zeal and curiosity, Kevin returned home early to be with his wife. He vowed not to go on trips again until his wife birthed the baby.

It was a good family of three soon. The wife birthed a baby boy. They celebrated now happily and again when their son had his first birthday.

They invited all friends to a get-together at a Chinese restaurant. Everyone cheered at the party for their son and the couple was happy.

Four years passed by when they had their second son. It was busy time for them now. They managed to pull through their daily tasks and remained happy no matter what.

Then they had to bring the wife's elderly mother to their home to take good care of her ailments. They kept a nurse to look after her needs.

Kevin was a great man of value. He took the added burden on his shoulders and did not consider it as a burden at all. He did everything he could for his mother-in-law to make her comfortable.

So this is the story of Kevin and family. They will continue to thrive with two growing sons and the elderly mother. Kevin will always remain loyal to his family and so will be the wife. Being highly compatible with each other, they will work together to ensure their family soars to great heights

Thank You for previewing this eBook

You can read the full version of this eBook in different formats:

- HTML (Free /Available to everyone)
- PDF / TXT (Available to V.I.P. members. Free Standard members can access up to 5 PDF/TXT eBooks per month each month)
- Epub & Mobipocket (Exclusive to V.I.P. members)

To download this full book, simply select the format you desire below

